New York (AP)— Chairman Roger M. Blough of the U.S. Steel Corp. refused Thursday to back down on the $6 a ton raise in steel prices, despite its sharp denunciation from President Kennedy.

The top executive of the steel industry stood firm, even in the face of a pending federal grand jury investigation of the increase.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy confirmed Blough's report that a grand jury in New York will look into steel pricing.

Blough defended the price boost as non-inflationary and as essential to a healthy national economy.

President Kennedy Wednesday denounced the steel price raise as "unjustifiable and irresponsible defiance of the public interest."

But Blough told a nationally televised news conference: "There was nothing irresponsible about the action we have taken."

Surprised at Reaction

Asked if he was surprised by the bitter White House reaction, Blough replied:

"I was."

U.S. Steel's action in raising steel prices to $156 a ton was followed by other major producers.

Blough's statement and his answer to newsmen's questions came as President Kennedy's top aides gathered at the White House to survey possibilities of action in the courts and in the Congress against the $6 steel boost pattern.

Kennedy, himself sat in during the last quarter-hour of the 45-minute White House meeting. An aide said the President would like to see a rollback or cancellation of the price increase. But Blough made it plain that any such hope was forlorn.

It was pointed out to Blough that Armco Steel and Inland Steel have yet to raise prices. He was asked how long U.S. Steel can stick to its price boost if these two firms don't go along.

"It would definitely affect us," he replied, "and I don't know how long we can maintain our position . . . I wouldn't want to state a specific number of days."

"But if they don't follow within a reasonably short period of time you would expect to have—?" a newsman started to ask.

"It would make it very difficult for us," Blough interrupted.

No White House Comment

The White House had no comment for the time being on U.S. Steel's defense of its price increase.

Blough revealed that a federal grand jury is looking into the price rise and has subpoened records of U.S. Steel. He said he himself has not been summoned by the grand jury.

Blough defended U.S. Steel's pricing action as overdue, and so modest in scope that it would have little dollars-and-cents effect on the nation's economy. He offered figures to indicate the steel boost would add only $10.64 to the price of a standard size automobile, 70 cents to a gas range, 35 cents to a washing machine, 65 cents to a refrigerator and only 3 cents to an electric toaster.

The executive declared that steel prices have remained stable for 4 years, while industry costs have risen. He added:

Termed Necessary

". . . Machinery and equipment must be kept up to date or no sales will be made, no work provided, no taxes available and our international competitive position, our balance of payments, our gold reserve and our national growth will seriously suffer."

Speaking of international economic competition, Blough said "proper pricing is certainly part of that picture."

Despite his firm stand, Blough said courteously of the Kennedy administration:

"Let me say respectfully that we have no wish to add to acrimony or to misunderstanding. We do not question the sincerity of anyone who disagrees with the action we have taken.

"Neither do we believe that anyone can properly assume that we are less deeply concerned with the welfare, the strength and the vitality of this nation than are those who have criticized our action."

STEEL FACES SCRAP

Attorney General Orders Probe

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Thursday night he has ordered a grand jury investigation into the new round of steel price increases.

Kennedy made the disclosure in response to questions about a statement by U.S. Steel Corp. Board Chairman Roger Blough that his firm had been subpoenaed before a grand jury.

A spokesman for the Justice Department issued Kennedy's statement to newsmen several hours after Blough defended U.S. Steel's action in a televised New York news conference.

The attorney general's statement said the grand jury probing the price rise will be convened in New York. He did not say when.

Had Watched

The attorney general had watched the first few minutes of Bough's television rebuttal to administration criticism and had refused to comment at that time.

His confirmation that the Justice Department would seek grand jury action in the steel price boosts came after day-long reports and speculation that Justice Department laywers were studying possible court action.

An antitrust action against "big steel" was described as one of several possible moves under review as a result of the sudden wave of price increases in the steel industry.

President Kennedy's top aides gathered at the White House to survey the possibilities of action in the courts and in Congress.

Irresponsible

Kennedy, who denounced the price rise initiated by U.S. Steel as "wholly unjustifiable and irresponsible," sat in during the last quarter hour of the 45-minute meeting.

The emphasis afterward was on orderly deliberation. Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, replied in the negative when asked if any direct action can be expected shortly.

"These things take time," Hatcher said.

Hatcher left unanswered a question as to whether there are any solid reasons for the White House to believe there might yet be a cancellation or rollback of the $6-a-ton rise in steel prices.

But in a low key statement of Kennedy's views, Hatcher told newsmen he thought it safe to say the President "would like steel prices to remain as they were" when the recent new labor contract was signed.

Shortly after Hatcher spoke, the National Steel Corp. announced in Pittsburgh it was joining the parade to higher prices. The firm announced a $6-a-ton increase starting Friday.

Larry Hudkins Named Nebraska Star Farmer

Larry Dale Hudkins of Raymond was named 1962 Star Farmer of Nebraska at the 34th annual state convention of Future Farmers of America Thursday evening.

The award to Hudkins, a senior at Waverly High School, is the highest that can be accorded an FFA member in Nebraska by the state FFA.

Larry is the son of Mr and Mrs. Floyd Hudkins of Raymond and lives on the 1,040-acre family farm. He has a grade average of 88 in his high school subjects, including a 94 in vocational agriculture.

Larry has been named the outstanding grain producer in his chapter for the past 3 years and has shown beef cattle in the FFA division of the Nebraska State Fair during this period.

Larry plans a future on the farm, and will manage 340 acres in his farming program for the coming year. His main farming projects have been the raising of beef cattle, hogs, fat steers and in grain production.

Area Star Farmer winners, who were in competition for the State Star Farmer award were Peter Lussetto of Bridgeport, Merlin Hoffman of West Point and Ron Ourada of Lexington.

All of the Area Star Farmer winners plan careers in agriculture.

Welch Asks $36,100 For Flood Costs

Maj. Gen. Lyle Welch, state adjutant general, has asked Governor Morrison for an estimated $39,100 from the state storm emergency fund for expenses incurred by the Nebraska disaster coordinator this spring in flood fighting.

Welch said the estimate covers the period from March 13 to March 31, the time of the major flood fighting, and also the period of April 1 of this year to about April 1, 1963, for limited expenses in conjunction with damage assessments, payments and flood recovery assistance.

Welch said the funds are available.

The funds would be charged against auditor's account No. 55.

Welch listed his estimates as follows: pay and allowances of personnel, $27,000; subsistence (meals), $1,000; gasoline and oil, $3,500; travel expense $500; telephone expense, $800; materials for emergency dike repair, $6,300.

Reds Hail First Trip Into Space ...YEAR AGO

Moscow (AP) — Soviet leaders splurged on an observance of the anniversary of the first manned orbit in space Thursday and the hero of the flight, Maj. Yuri Gagarin, told them there soon will be more achievements to celebrate.

Premier Khrushchev, looking chipper, was vigorously applauded as he marched onto the stage with Gagarin and the Soviet Union's other cosmonaut, Maj. Gherman Titov, before 6,000 persons in the Kremlin's congress hall. Khrushchev's speechmaking was confined to two interruptions.

One was when Gagarin declared he and his fellow space pilots "do not want to fly alone, but we wish to take passengers aboard our craft."

Khrushchev broke in with an old proverb which promises good things to come, saying, "you will have everything. You'll have a whistle and you will have a squirrel."

The other interruption was when Titov said the world once looked to the United States for miracles because it was the vanguard of the capitalist world, but this was no longer true and now it is the Soviet Union that is in the vanguard.

"The first builders of communism are the Soviet people," Khrushchev said.

A Holiday

The day had been declared a national holiday in honor of Gagarin's feat on April 12, 1961. His chest loaded with medals for the exploit, Gagarin declared in his brief speech:

"We are on the threshold of more new space launchings. When these space ships return to earth the Soviet people will have more holidays to celebrate."

The occasion was Khrushchev's first public appearance in two weeks. Since he last appeared March 30 at the international Tchaikovsky music competition, rumors had circulated that he was ill but he was looking robust.

NIKE ZEUS SCORES SUCCESS IN FLIGHT

Point Mugu, Calif. (AP)— A Nike Zeus antimissile rocket Thursday made the first successful over-the-ocean flight testing all 3 of its stages.

The third stage motor, designed to direct the warhead to within killing distance of the target, performed as expected. It previously had been tested only over land.

Thursday's shot of the 48-foot solid fuel rocket was a repeat of a test last March 28, which was ended by an explosion shortly after launch.

The speedy white missile vanished quickly over the Pacific missile range, the first two stages firing in rapid sequence. The third stage was ignited later in the flight.

The Army said later: "missile and ground guidance elements of the system used in the test performed as expected; test objectives were met."

The Nike Zeus system, still in development, is designed to defend against attacking intercontinental missiles by seeking them out and destroying their effectiveness before they reach their target.

State Home Bus Smacks Into Tree

Lincoln Star Special

Cortland—A Beatrice State Home bus carrying 35 young girls and attendants veered off U.S. 77 in Cortland Thursday evening, struck a tree, and injured 15 of the youngsters and two attendants.

None of the injuries is believed serious, according to physicians at the State Home. Two girls received stitches for minor cuts and one was X-rayed for a possible broken shoulder, according to Home Supt. M. E. Wyant.

The bus was returning from Lincoln where the children viewed an afternoon performance of the Shrine Circus.

According to bus driver, Gerald E. Cook, 39, of Beatrice, the steering mechanism failed and the vehicle veered off the highway to the right, sideswiping a Cortland fire hydrant and hitting the weeping willow tree.

Five ambulances were called to the scene and 4 of them were used to return the injured to the Home for medical treatment.

According to eyewitness 17-year-old Dwaine Retzlaff of Cortland, the impact sent bus occupants "flying all over." None was thrown from the bus, however.

Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr. of Beatrice investigated the accident. He reported that the front end of the bus was badly damaged.

'Scofflaw King' Got 235 Tickets

New York (AP) — A man arrested Thursday for ignoring at least 235 traffic tickets was named the new "scofflaw king" by traffic court officials.

The defendant, Harry Katz, 45, was arraigned before Chief Magistrate Abraham M. Bloch in traffic and held in $7,500 bail for a hearing April 26.

Police said that former "scofflaw king," Eugene Doriot Heil, had 196 unanswered tickets and was fined $6,175 and 60 days in jail.

Feed Grain Plan Tentatively OKd

Washington (AP)— The Senate Agriculture Committee tentatively approved the administration's mandatory feed grain program Thursday to control production starting in 1963.

The committee, however, exempted all feed grains except corn, sorghum and barley. In addition, corn produced for silage on the farm would not be under production controls.

The committee also approved an amendment by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., which would permit the secretary of agriculture to exempt malting barley producers from production controls when malting barley is in short supply.

Man Badly Hurt In Gas Barrel Blast

Edwin Opp, 46, of 5000 Lowell, was listed in critical condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital early Friday with brain injuries sustained in a gasoline explosion.

Opp was welding metal legs on a 55-gallon gasoline barrel Thursday afternoon when the bottom of the barrel blew out, striking him in the face.

The force of the explosion blew out two large windows in the office of Opp's Service Station at 4240 So. 48th. Pieces of metal were driven through the ceiling of the garage where Opp was working.

Henry Ricksgers of 4420 Sherman, an attendant at the station, was standing in the doorway between the office and the garage when the accident occurred. "I was lucky, I guess," he said. "I wasn't hurt." Ricksgers covered Opp, who was bleeding from the face, and ran for help.

Peace Corps Expansion Bill Sent To JFK

KENNEDY'S REQUEST IS APPROVED

...BY CONGRESS

Washington (AP)—The Peace Corps got some solid pats on the back Thursday when the Senate, with little ado, passed and sent to President Kennedy a bill approving his request for a vast expansion of the overseas helping-hand project.

There was little debate and only one mild attempt to reduce the expansion before the measure was approved by voice vote.

It authorizes the President to spend $63,750,000 to put 9,970 volunteers into the corps by the fall of next year. It now has about 900 volunteers and expects that number to grow to 2,400 by June 30 and to 5,100 by the fall of this year.

Pared Down Last Year

Some doubts had been expressed about the wisdom of creating the corps last year when Congress set it up with an authorization of $40 million. That total was cut back to $30 million in the appropriation bill which provided the actual money. Thursday's authorization could be similarly pared down later.

Only a handful of senators was on hand during Thursday's debate. And only one amendment was offered, by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, to cut the authorization to $45,780,000 for an enrollment of 6,970. He did not ask for a roll call and his move was rejected by a voice vote.

The speechmaking, except for Lausche's, was devoted to tributes to the work of the 900 volunteers now in the corps and to praise of the corps' director, Sargent Shriver.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., floor manager of the bill, described Shriver as one of the "most dedicated and, at the same time, most reasonable of men."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said the corps has carried "the true image" of America to the world.

Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., said he was gratified that the first year of the corps "has been such a successful one and convinced Congress of its soundness."

Trio Rescued After Being Swept Through Culvert

Eutaw, Ala. (AP) — "We're safe, thank the good Lord," said Mrs. Laura Lauer. "I don't care about the car, the clothes or anything."

Mrs. Lauer, her husband Robert and 15-month-old baby were swept through a rain-filled culvert under a highway in the pre-dawn darkness Thursday after their car piled up in a creek.

Dramatic rescue work by two police officers saved them.

With Lauer driving, the family was returning from a vacation in Louisiana to their home in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The accident occurred north of this west Alabama town on two-lane U.S. 11. An unidentified soldier en route to his home in Oliver Springs, Tenn., was a passenger.

"We just hit a drop in the road full of water," said Mrs. Lauer. "I imagine that threw the car off balance. It went into the ditch head first."

Their car was submerged except for the rear end.

"We got out through a window," she said. "I held the baby until my husband got out, then he took the baby.

"The other man went out the other side and climbed onto the highway. Police came along about that time.

"The water was so swift. We went under the bridge and came out on the other side.

"I grabbed a tree and could see the highway."

Lauer was swept along for 100 feet before he grabbed a tree and stopped.

Highway Patrolman Paul Stokes and Eutaw City Policeman James Duncan peeled off most of their clothes and rescued the Lauers.

Accusation Aimed At CBS

...Antitrust Charge

New York (AP) — The government accused the Columbia Broadcasting System in an antitrust suit Thursday of forcing affiliated television stations to take most of their afternoon and evening programs from the network.

The civil action was filed in Federal District Court in Manhattan by the Justice Department. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy announced the suit.

Under a new compensation plan started last year, the action charged, CBS affiliates are required to take more programs from the network in order to receive the same amount of revenue.

The Justice Department asked for a court directive compelling the network to give up the plan.

It said that since the new agreements were instituted, independent suppliers of programs and non-network advertisers have been denied access to the CBS affiliates during the most desirable broadcast times.

The network issued a statement denying that its plan violated the antiturst laws or forced affiliates to carry CBS programs.

Canada Recruits Nebraskans For North Of Border

A representative of the Canadian Immigration Service was in Lincoln Thursday looking for people who might be interested in moving to Canada.

C. J. Peterson of the Canadian's Denver office, said his government was particularly looking for persons in small service type businesses—dry cleaners, radio-TV shops, etc. —to help develop "relatively new areas of Canada where the population is expanding."

Peterson said some 12,000 United States citizens immigrated to Canada last year, bringing the total to 180,000 since World War II.

Also sought are farmers, Peterson said, adding that the Canadian government has land available — raw land at $2.50 to $5 per acre and semi-improved land at $25 to $75 per acre.

Doctor Blasts Food Faddism As 'Well-Organized Racket'

"Eating is one of the pleasures of life, but food faddists have capitalized on Americans' concern for health to serve their own selfish wishes," Dr. Frederick Stare, Harvard University nutrition professor told delegates to the 4-state nutrition conference at the Nebraska Center.

"Food faddism is a smooth well-organized racket that costs the public $500 to $600 million dollars each year," Dr. Stare charged Thursday night.

"The most vicious thing to hit the public is the flood of screwball books on nutrition quackery," the physician said, listing 14 such books that "shouldn't be on anyone's bookshelf."

In denouncing health stores, Dr. Stare stated that there is no advantage to so-called "health foods."

"You can get good nutrition from the grocery store by eating a variety of main types of foods," he maintained. "Variety is the single most important factor in a good diet."

"Some of the foods pushed by quacks are sound but their use in the diet or importance in the diet is over-emphasized," he said.

According to Dr. Stare, elderly persons are especially gullible to the advertising implemented by faddists. He warned against anyone taking unsound nutrition advice seriously.

Advocating fluoridation, the educator noted that tooth decay be cut 50% by the regular use of floride in water.

"Regardless of what you eat or don't eat," he said, "fluoridation decreases decay and is no danger or harm to the individual."

The nutritional conference attracting attendance from Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, will close its 3-day meeting with Friday sessions.

NU PROF'S STUDY:

Studies Freshman Personality Traits

By WOODY HOWE
Star Staff Writer

New freshmen at the University of Nebraska have personalities and attitudes much like freshmen at other colleges across the country, a psychological survey has shown, except for these variations:

—Freshmen from non-farm backgrounds who enter engineering are among the most intellectually inclined and socially mature freshmen at NU.

—The religious attitudes of NU freshmen do not follow their social and intellectual attitudes.

—The top 16% of College of Agriculture freshmen arrive at college equipped with attitudes that might make them more at home in the highly individualistic and intellectual atmosphere of a small, exclusive liberal arts college.

These were the major conclusions of Dr. Jonathan Warren, who is still analyzing the data he collected from a survey of 413 first-year male students at NU.

Dr. Warren, a counseling psychologist at the University, used a battery of psychological tests which had been developed at the University of California's Center for the Study of Higher Education at Berkeley.

His object was not so much to compare NU freshmen with those in other colleges (although he did use test results from other colleges as a yardstick), but rather to compare groups of students within NU colleges and divisions.

The answers to these tests, Dr. Warren explained, yield a comprehensive group of scales which indicate, among other things, a person's complexity, independence, attitude toward intellectual activity, estheticism, and social maturity.

Social Maturity

A socially mature person, the test developers hypothesize, is "flexible and realistic ... unromantic and uncynical ... tolerant and undogmatic ... and free without being dependent upon rules and rituals for managing social relationships."

In this category, Dr. Warren explained, students in colleges of arts and science usually score highest, with those in non-professional courses scoring somewhat higher than those in pre-law, pre-med or other pre-professional courses.

This held true at NU —except that freshmen entering the College of Engineering were as high on the social maturity scale as those in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The engineers also scored high in "theoretical orientation" and "theoretical introversion", which basically are measures of attitudes toward intellectual activities.

These findings led Dr. Warren to conclude that engineering in the Midwest has "more attraction for intellectually inclined people than in the rest of the country."

Male freshmen in Teachers College scored moderately lower in both categories, as did groups of pre-professional arts and sciences students, business administration majors, and engineering from farm backgrounds.

The median score of Ag College freshmen was lower still on the social maturity scale, though not much lower on the theoretical attitude scales.

One of the surprising findings in the study of ag students, however, was the extremely wide range of their scores. The top 16% of them would be more at home at Antioch, Reed or Swarthmore —where the same test was given — than they are with the other ag college students, Dr. Warren said.

The pattern established by the social maturity scale holds generally through the other categories. That is, in such traits as liberalism, estheticism and originality, arts and science (non-professional) and engineering (non-farm) tend to place higher on the scales than business administration, engineering (farm) and agriculture.

Dr. Warren pointed out that the scales are as objective as scientific psychology can achieve, and that no value judgment is intended.

Teachers College male freshmen fell generally lower on these scales with the exception of estheticism.

Religious Attitudes

However, on the scale that attempts to measure religious liberalism, or the tendency toward atheism and agnosticism, there was remarkably little difference among the various groups, the survey showed.

Usually, Dr. Warren said, groups of students whose median score is high on a scale of social maturity or liberalism will score correspondingly high on the atheism-agnosticism scale.

His conclusion was that NU students, in whatever college within the University, hold their religious attitudes independently of their attitudes toward other institutions and society.

"They seem to compartmentalize their religious attitudes," he said.

In general, he continued, NU male freshmen are not substantially different in impulsiveness nor intellectual attitudes from those at the University of California at Berkeley, whose scores were one yardstick.

His survey was financed by the College of Agriculture and the University Research Council.

He plans in a later collection of data to lump all the colleges within NU and compare attitudes of freshmen with non-farm backgrounds to those who have come from farms.

The broad purpose of the study, Dr. Warren said, was to establish the characteristics of various groups of entering freshmen so that teaching programs could be tailored to their needs.

REVELATIONS

Response to our recent comparative ads has been most revealing, even to the point that our attention was called to other prices we could have included.

We prepared our lists (not our prices) in advance and compared the better known items where prices are (?) more competitive. Comparisons on the numerous unknown or not advertised items would have been even more in our favor

We are trying to earn patronage by offering the best at the lowest price commensurate with good business standards.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 ... the same year that ...

NEBRASKANS were jubilant when Abraham Lincoln, on July 2, signed the bill for the first railroad in Nebraska. Throughout the territory the good news was cheered with steins of foaming beer.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. But beer has contributed more than just pleasure. Besides providing employment to many Nebraskans, the brewing industry utilizes many of the products grown on Nebraska farms, greatly contributing to the state's economy.

TODAY in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Bill Would Divide Assets Of Poncas

... Measure Requested By Nebraska Indians

Washington (AP)—The Interior Department has sent legislation to Congress providing for division of tribal assets of the Ponca Indians of northeastern Nebraska.

The bill would terminate the tribe's special relations with the federal government and was submitted in response to requests of the Indians.

Assistant Secretary John A. Carver Jr. said division of assets would be authorized only if it is approved by a majority of the adult members of the tribe.

The tribal land now consists of about 960 acres valued at about $70,000. In addition, tribal trust funds totaling about $28,000 and federal property worth about $7,400 are included.

Under the proposal each member of the tribe would be given the opportunity of selecting not more than 5 acres of tribal land as a homesite, and would be required to pay the tribe its current market value. Lands remaining after the proposed homesite purchases would be sold and the proceeds distributed among eligible tribal members.

Others May Cash In On Steel Hike

... Owen Forecasts

Omaha (AP)—The advance in steel prices will be used as an excuse for higher prices in many industries, Edward Owen, executive vice-president of Paxton & Vierling Steel Co., said Thursday.

Owen disputed the idea that the price boost would raise the cost of a new car $20 to $70.

"Figure it out," he said. "There just isn't that much steel in even the heaviest car."

Owen said he was surprised there hadn't been an attempt at upward adjustment of steel prices before this. He said steel buyers, especially in the construction industry, are getting 10% higher grade steel for less money than they were two years ago.

"All the new steels will be 10 to 20% higher in strength," he said. "And although prices are bound to be higher on these items at first, they gradually will work downward."

Owen declared increased quality of steel products without accompanying price increases has been overlooked at times in controversy over pricing.

Other steel fabricators in Omaha disagreed with the view expressed in Washington that the recent United Steel Workers contract was non-inflationary.

John W. Bucholz, executive vice president of Omaha Steel Works, said the so-called "10-cent fringe package" received by steel workers is "definitely inflationary."

"We don't blame the mills, and we don't go along with the administration," he said. "This price increase combined with Kennedy's program of lower tariffs over the long run would certainly be an inducement to increased imports."

2 City Posts Still Unfilled; Search Goes On

Personnel Director Ray Ramsay reported Thursday that two of the 4 new city positions authorized last September by the City Council are still unfilled.

In a letter filed with the city clerk, Ramsay said the traffic engineer position is still open.

A Kansas prospect "was unacceptable," he said, but correspondence is being carried on with two other men — one in Connecticutt and the other in California.

As to a public works and utilities engineer to ultimately succeed to the director's post when Public Works Director D. L. Erickson retires, Ramsay reported Erickson is looking.

On the filled positions, Ramsay reported that Harold Sothan was employed as park engineer in January and Dwight Johnson as deputy Assessor in February.

2 Persons Hurt In Crash With Parked Cruiser

Two persons were taken early Friday to Veteran's Hospital after the car in which they were riding swerved into a parked State Patrol cruiser at 7100 Holdrege.

One of the injured was identified by police as S. Sgt. Austin Mullinax, 37, of the 818th Transportation Sqdrn. at the Lincoln Air Force Base. The passenger in his car, a woman, was not identified.

The parked Patrol car was assigned to Lt. Gerald Tesch, 7100 Holdrege, off-duty from the State Patrol at the time of the collision.

Kearney College Student Admits Armed Robberies

Omaha (AP) — Police say a 23-year-old Kearney State College student has admitted 4 armed robberies in Omaha in recent weekends.

He is identified as Raymond Arvid Brown of Omaha.

While going to school Brown also has been working at the Boys Training School in Kearney as a recreation aid, Supt. William Ettinger said.

Brown was arrested through the work of Monroe Coleman and Ptmon P. Fox all of the Omaha police detective bureau.

The detectives said all the robberies were staged by a young man armed with a sawed-off rifle and that through a tip they learned that a young Kearney man had purchased such a weapon.

Later, while talking with Patrolman Frank Felinski, they learned that the patrolman had stopped Brown recently on a Saturday for a routine checkup. And the robberies were on weekends.

Pictures of the suspect were shown to the robbery victims and the arrest followed.

Court Order Ends N.Y. Teachers Strike—

Rockefeller And Wagner Rake Up $61 Million More

New York (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor Robert F. Wagner agreed Thursday night on a distribution of state school funds to permit settlement of a teachers strike halted earlier by a court order.

Rockefeller said a disputed $48.6 million school aid payment would be made available, plus an additional $13 million the city had not counted on.

Charles Cogen, president of the United Federation of Teachers, said he felt there was now enough money for "a basis of negotiation."

The teachers struck the city's 900 public schools Wednesday for pay raises totaling $53 million a year. The city had offered $28 million and said that was all it could scrape up.

Involved in the dispute was disagreement between the Republican governor and the Democratic mayor about a change in method of paying state school funds to the city. This concerned the $48.6 million installment payment.

In a joint statement issued after their first known meeting on the issue, Rockefeller and Wagner said they had found "a common interpretation" of state aid legislation.

Cogen declared that whatever the outcome of a court hearing on the injunction stopping the strike the teachers would not resume their picketing.

"Injunction or no injunction, this is getting us into movement" for settlement, Cogen said.

The teachers asked that salaries now ranging from $4,800 to $8,650 a year be increased to a range of $5,400 to $9,500 a year.

A spokesman for Rockefeller said the agreement enables the city to borrow $48.6 million now from state school funds normally due to be paid next September. This would still leave $265 million for the city for the 1962-63 school year, $13 million more than the city had anticipated.

In effect, however, the agreement continues a deferred payment plan for city schools.

Classrooms returned to normal Thursday when the teachers union bowed to the court order.

Woman's Name Removed From Road Death List

The State Accident Records Bureau Thursday deleted the name of Gurgis Gap from the Nebraska fatality total on the basis of new evidence.

The body of the woman was discovered April 4 in a borrow pit near Alliance. An abandoned truck was a short distance away.

Authorities then determined she had fallen from the driver's seat and was run over by a wheel.

But Accident Records Chief Tom Ryan now reports he has received word that the woman was dead prior to falling or being pushed from the vehicle.

In Alliance, County Attorney Alan Curtiss said he will not determine the cause of death until he gets an autopsy report from a Scottsbluff pathologist.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Matt Berg and his staff were continuing an investigation into the death of the Porcupine, S.D., girl.

Iowa Couple Found Dead In G.I. Motel

Grand Island (AP)— A Sioux City, Iowa, man and wife were found dead in a Grand Island motel Thursday afternoon.

County Attorney Gerald Buechler said Lebert N. Watterson, 63, and his 61-year-old wife Mary apparently had died sometime Tuesday night. The official said there were indications the couple had been violently ill.

Also found dead was a dog.

The county attorney said the couple apparently died of poisoning, the nature of which has not been determined. An autopsy was to be performed on the dog and tests were to be made in an effort to determine what caused the Wattersons' deaths.

Buechler said Mr. and Mrs. Watterson had checked in at the Rey Motel at the east edge of Grand Island Monday. Indications were found they had attended the races in Grand Island Tuesday.

The bodies were found by Rosalio Briseno, the motel operator. There was no evidence of violence. Buechler said the gas was not on in the room and Mr. and Mrs. Watterson definitely were not asphyxiated.

Fast Mind Has Replaced Fast Gun, Says Hardin

Omaha (AP) — The fast mind has replaced the fast gun of the Old West as the equalizer in today's world, Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin told pupils of Omaha's Technical High School Thursday.

Chancellor Hardin, speaking at the Kiwanis-sponsored career day at the school, said potential returns from preparation and performance have never been higher. He added that the opportunities for women also are greater than ever.

One reason, he said, is a desperate shortage of young adults in the United States. The number of persons between 18 and 30 is smaller than at previous times in our history when the overall population was much lower, he said.

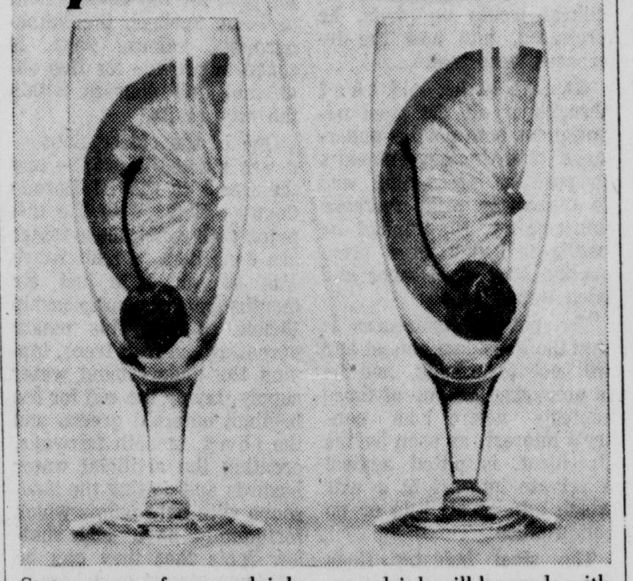

Chancellor Hardin was one of about 20 speakers participating in the career day.

Bonds Eyed For Streets

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A proposal is before the City-County Planning Commission for the possible issuance of bonds to bring the city's street program up to date. Speaking of street needs in a letter to his colleagues, Commission Chairman E. J. Faulkner said that "if the community does not move to complete these projects any faster than it can pay for them from current revenues, the city will suffer a number of very serious effects stemming from the inadequacy of its arterial street facilities."

The statement clearly shows that this matter of traffic movement is not just a question of a few minutes lost or gained on the part of a motorist whom some might class as spoiled. All of business, industry and the service professions are operating on wheels today in one way or another. The merchants who have their products for sale, the manufacturer who must deliver his products and the doctors, lawyers, architects, etc., all are dependent upon the movement of traffic. When traffic doesn't move as it should, all of these people start losing money and the community suffers.

All Business Mobile

Of primary concern is the central downtown area of the city. The concern here is not just for the businessman downtown as opposed to the businessman in the suburbs. The concern is plainly much more selfish and personal than that. We don't want the downtown merchant to fail because his failure would be reflected in our own well-being. When he fails, men and women are out of jobs and the tax base is reduced.

Unemployment is a burden on everyone, even though the brunt of the thing falls on the unemployed person himself. And when the tax base is narrowed, it means that the rest of us have to pick up just that much more of the burden. And when the central business district deteriorates, a lot of other things happen.

With this deterioration comes a loss in values of millions and millions of dollars. In other words, we waste this tremendous investment and no community can afford to waste that large a part of its economic capacity. But if people cannot get into and out of the central business district, then that district is going to suffer. The area lives off the people drawn into it and this goes for all the retail and service businesses. The dentist in a downtown office building will find his patient load declining if people are unable to get to him. The same thing is true for the attorney, the architect, the accountant and other services.

Transportation is a vital part of the movement of goods in wholesale circles, too. The business that produces goods for distribution to retail outlets is looking for a quick and efficient means of getting the job done. He doesn't want his trucks tied up for an hour or two getting through a traffic jam. He wants to quickly move into the interstate pace of traffic and not run the risks involved with moving through heavy and ponderous local traffic. In a nutshell, traffic movement is a major ingredient of any city and the city that can't deal with it effectively will suffer serious losses. It is a point, too, by which a city is measured in the location of new industry. A city with a backward traffic program is not going to be considered progressive by a firm trying to settle on a new site.

It is appropriate in view of these considerations that the commission seek an answer to the city's street needs. It is not a matter that can be hastily concluded as the needs must be spelled out and compared with the expected revenue. But there is no question that such an analysis will show a demand for increased spending.

Lincoln has made considerable progress in street improvements in recent years. Of particular note is the fact that resurfacing as a result of the city's wheel tax has our streets in better condition than they have ever been before. Where we have fallen short is in the area of completely new facilities and widening of existing facilities.

It is taking us three years to widen East O; it took us years to do the Capitol Parkway and it still isn't finished; we are now only planning the Northeast Diagonal and that will be a long time getting done and we haven't even gotten around to planning on the widening of certain arterials where such work is badly needed. A bond issue for street improvements may be an advisable course to follow but there is some doubt that present revenues could do that financing job and meet current needs.

Incompleted Projects

This would force the city into either a general obligation bond or force an increase in the wheel tax for a revenue bond approach. The latter course would seem much more advisable and little time should be lost in making a decision in the matter. Getting ahead will take some doing but getting further behind will bring even more headaches.

New York Teachers Lose

It makes no difference what New York teachers get in terms of salary because they have lost something more valuable than that in their strike against the public schools of the city. The New York teachers are organized and perhaps they have as great a right to strike for what they want as does any other group of working people. Even the economics of the thing would give them sufficient justification.

At least, the reported New York salary range requested for teachers of $5,400 to $9,500 plus bonuses is not a scale to especially raise one's eyebrows. But the teaching profession has always enjoyed a special kind of consideration that will be lost as it follows the impersonal pattern of other working groups. Possibly the teachers themselves care little about their place in the minds and hearts of people but the rest of society does.

Teachers have been next to parents in the rearing and training of children. The young people have a special kind of regard and respect for teachers. The teachers impress them with their knowledge and with their understanding and have come to be looked upon by their students as a little above the rest of the people.

But striking teachers do away with this kind of consideration. It puts them right in there with the rest of the people who are mainly interested in getting paid for the job they do. Despite the practical elements of the situation from the teachers' point of view, it is our feeling that the profession will never be quite as good on the hard organized basis as it has been on the basis of teaching for the sake of its significance and for its rewards other than financial.

Matter Of Good Faith

The Soviet Union has again proposed an unpoliced moratorium on nuclear weapons tests and the United States has again rejected it. It answered that the Soviet Union could not be trusted to uphold its end of the agreement.

Lack of trust and the absence of acts that strengthen trust continue to be the forces which are preventing any meeting of minds between the East and the West in the whole field of nuclear controls and of disarmament. It suggests that all efforts to achieve disarmament which refuse to go to the core of the matter are doomed.

It recalls the validity of the policy expressed by President Kennedy. Nuclear controls and disarmament can only begin when each side grants to the other a sufficient defense of the home lands. It is unreasonable to expect any nation to divest itself of an adequate defense, nor would it be right to do so.

It is equally necessary for the contending nations to renounce armed aggression and back it up by deeds of good faith. It is here where Soviet Russia is in the bad position. It has sworn itself to world conquest. The United States has not. Moreover the United States has furnished compelling evidence of good faith. It did not use the bomb against Russia during the years prior to 1950 when Russia would have been relatively helpless against it and the United States only slightly in danger of reprisal. There is no evidence that Russia would have acted with equal restraint had conditions been reversed.

So it would seem that the rejection of aggression by Russia is the first requirement of arms control, and should that come about, most of the other problems connected with it would lose most of their difficulty.

Wrong Medicine

Now, a year after, the city of Newburgh, New York, gained national attention by invoking bitter sanctions against its unemployed and its relief clients, it can be reported that it has neither reformed nor solved its problem of community decay. Its problem actually is more acute than ever, because it is trying to equate harsh human treatment with community rebuilding, and that is the wrong medicine.

Newburgh is an old city whose history goes back to colonial days. It lies on the east bank of the Hudson River between New York City and Albany. Through long periods of its life it enjoyed solid activity in commerce and later in industry, neither of which are doing well now. What has happened in recent years is acute community decay. The once prosperous river front section has deteriorated into a slum area. The town made no effort to renew the area, but took the easy way out. It started an inland sprawl. The withdrawal has gone far enough that some of the residents are maintaining their homes outside the city limits. The decay in the heart of town posed a serious tax problem and then multiplied itself. That condition still exists and is progressing. The fault is not primarily on the unemployed, but on an earlier lack of planning and firm action, restoring the town's core.

Newburgh may finally drive away or outlive its poverty-stricken dependents, but then it will still be confronted by its own cancer. Sooner or later it will have to cure itself or go down. It needed a strong form of urban renewal years ago, and still needs it. It stands today not as an example of how to deal with human distress, but as an example of a city that refused to put first things first and is paying the price of it.

Iran's Freedom Is Owing To UN

WASHINGTON — The Shah of Iran, valiant ally of the United States, is in Washington this week conferring on the precarious position he occupies cheek-and-jowl with the Soviet Union.

That position in one sense is almost identical with that of Cuba and the United States, only worse. The Russians for years have been itching to get access to Iran's warm-water route to the Indian Ocean and have poked a meddlesome finger into Iranian politics; we have intervened from time to time in Cuba.

Exactly 16 years ago almost to the month, Stalin staged his most daring attempt to take over Iran.

An American vice consul in northern Iran in March 1946 heard Russian troop carriers clanking past his house in the dead of night, sent frantic cables to the State Department. At first they were ignored. But Joe Panuch, then assistant to Secretary of State Jimmy Byrnes, now a New York attorney, alerted this writer.

Dispatches published in this column on the Russian troop movements brought an emergency session of the UN council, and the entire peace machinery of the United Nations plus the force of world opinion was focused on Stalin. Russian troops finally withdrew.

This was the most crucial test of the world's new and untried and shaky peace machinery. Prior to World War II, the world's peace machinery had been gradually eroding. Like tiny rivulets in a plowed field reach floodstage and ruin it, the peace of the world had been eroded by the Japanese war lords in Manchuria, Mussolini in Ethiopia, Hitler in the Rhineland, Austria and Czechoslovakia, until a discouraged world had concluded there was no hope for peace.

The war had been over less than a year when Stalin tried to punch a new hole in the newly constructed machinery of the United Nations. He failed. He had the troops. The UN had no troops. But it had world indignation on its side. The UN won.

Since then the UN has been thrown into other emergencies. Its most serious was in Korea—again precipitated by Stalin. The UN came out of that one somewhat scarred; but it survived, and it went on to build stronger machinery at the Suez crisis of 1956 and the Congo civil war of 1961. The fact that the Senate has now backed the UN bond issue to support that machinery is another victory for peace.

At the time of Stalin's attempted push into Iran 16 years ago, Foreign Minister Molotov was at the helm of Soviet policy; and Averell Harriman, ex-ambassador to Russia, then reported to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that it was Molotov's goal to bite off both Iran and the Dardanelles for Russia.

Steel's Action Called Stupid

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has placed the federal government in a state of economic siege and defined the enemy as Big Steel, which has raised prices following the first noninflationary wage settlement since the end of World War II.

The President vibrated with anger at his press conference as he assailed the "tiny handful of steel executives who in pursuit of private profit displayed such utter contempt of the national interest." In his comparison of their actions with the sacrifices being made by other Americans, even to their lives, he fell just short of even more dire charges.

The scene was intensely dramatic and probably represents a major turning point in his administration. Up to now he has sought accommodation with business to the point of strain upon his ties with labor, which supported him in 1960.

But for all that he "summoned up the tiger" for the purposes of his indictment, he did not commit himself to any one course of action. His review of the possibilities open to him showed that he was examining them all and ruling out nothing.

His first purpose was to persuade the public and to convince the steel operators that he was not to be trifled with. The indictment ran to many counts, stated with icy clarity.

In the course of it, he disclosed that he had not been informed of the price increases until after they had been announced. This he regards as a denigration of the presidency, possibly also an attempted personal humiliation.

He dwelt upon the speed with which other steel companies followed U.S. Steel's lead, all but admitting that his first hope had been to persuade the others not to follow suit. Appropriate inquiries would be made, he promised, into how the increases were made.

Repeatedly he said that throughout all the steel negotiations both parties understood that the government's purpose in intervening was to make any price increase unnecessary. He implied he had even hoped for a price decline after steel labor had been won over.

The political consensus is that the President cannot and will not turn back, and he is embarked on one of those contests where the country's interest, as seen by the President, is pitted against a private interest in a war which admits of little or no compromise.

The steel industry finds few defenders here as it opens. Politicians of all shades of opinion found their maneuver badly timed and executed with incredible crudeness. Champions of business moaned about "steel's stupidity" and expressed regret that the presidency had been so casually treated.

The silence of leading Republicans spoke for itself. Democrats suggested that Steel had waked up their president to the fact that he was a Democrat.

THEY WALKED WITH CHRIST

Army Captain At Capernaum

"And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto Him a centurion . . ." —Matthew VIII:5

Unlike most soldiers of the Roman legion who occupied Palestine during the time of Jesus, this centurion had a great deal of respect for the Jews and their religion, and was considered by them to be a godly man.

Luke reports that the elders of the Jews spoke to Jesus on his behalf, saying: "He loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue."

It has been conjectured that, since Galilee was ruled by Herod Antipas, the centurion probably commanded some Roman troops maintained by that tetrarch at Capernaum.

When the Roman sought the favor of Jesus, it was for the healing of a servant "who was dear to him," but was on the point of death—reduced to utter impotence and misery by some form of palsy or paralysis.

The character of the centurion is all the more remarkable when viewed in its proper historical perspective. In those days, a servant was little better than a slave.

If he fell ill, and was unable to further serve his master, he was usually banished to an infirmary, or taken to the home of relatives or friends.

When he asked Jesus to help the sick servant, Jesus told the Roman:

"I will come and heal him."

But the centurion had so much faith in the Master's prowess that he said, "Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed."

Just as the soldiers obeyed his commands, the centurion said, so the forces of good would heal the sick servant at the command of Jesus.

When Jesus heard this, He turned to His followers and said:

"Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel."

And He healed the centurion's servant "in the selfsame hour."

Dr. George A. Buttrick pointed out that "this faith was a far cry from Roman pride, and the worship in Pagan temples."

"He could have been brutal to his servants—Caesar once apologized for feeling pity for a slave — but instead he sought the help of Christ for a favored servant."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Ike May Make California His Home

PALM SPRINGS, CALIF. —The skilled public relations operators who promote this desert resort have come up with the fact that there is a swimming pool for every five persons and this, in the jargon of the trade, gives Palm Springs the undisputed title of "Swimming Pool Capital of the World."

It would be hard to find a more striking example of the affluent society than the way in which the barren desert rimmed by jagged mountains sprinkled with snow has bloomed with many splendored motels, hotels, golf clubs and fancy emporiums of every kind. The blaze of brilliant light on Palm Canyon Drive rivals the best that Miami Beach can offer.

The eager promoters insist the boom has only begun and, as new subdivisions spring up like brightly colored desert cacti, there is every reason to believe they are right. Much of the land around Palm Springs is owned by the surviving Indians of the region and their holdings are carefully parceled out. The visitor is told stories of the three-year-old Indian girl who was paid $325,000 for the tract of land she had inherited. The slum shacks formerly occupied mostly by Indians, just off Palm Canyon Drive, have now largely been taken over by Negroes who work in the motels.

According to the publicity machine, the number of golf courses has tripled in four years, making a total of 15 in operation today. The master plan for the development of Palm Springs, the mimeographed release says, is zoned to provide for five additional golf courses within the city limits.

One of the oldest clubs — it was started in 1957 — and the finest is the El Dorado Country Club. With the dispatch with which these things are done here, a fruit ranch was converted in just six months into a championship 18-hole course. This meant uprooting the fruit trees, tapping the underground water supply, laying the sod for the brilliant emerald greens and the long, smooth fairways, creating the artificial water hazards and dotting the landscape with date palms which fortunately have such shallow roots that they can be set down almost anywhere.

The whole effect, including the handsome clubhouse skillfully designed for the environment, is of permanence and the rarest of all luxuries today — privacy. Small wonder, then, that the admission fee is $9,000 (this includes a "proprietary interest" which can ultimately be disposed of under the supervision of the admissions committee) and that the modest houses first built on the fairways to sell for up to $35,000 now bring $65,000, with those more recently constructed selling for an average of $85,000.

In the midst of this lush desert flowering, so in contrast to the background of the boy from Abilene, Kansas, former President Eisenhower is living in retirement. He has been one of the public relations assets of the area, his comings and goings as reported in the press putting the name and the virtues of the booming desert resort in the news.

But, as a matter of fact, while he is in Palm Springs —the actual community is Palm Desert — he is not of it. The life he leads could hardly be more private and secluded. This may be one reason he is said to be considering disposing of his Gettysburg, Pa., estate and settling the year round in California.

With three or four close friends, he plays on the El Dorado course and sometimes he lunches at the special table reserved for him in the big glass-walled dining room of the clubhouse looking out on a long stretch of green with the stark brown mountains as a backdrop. Otherwise, he rarely leaves the house on the eleventh fairway on which he is said to pay a nominal rent.

To friends who have seen him lately, he has given the impression of a rather lonely man. It is never easy to surrender power and to put aside the appurtenances of power. The other day Eisenhower rode for the first time in his life, so far as he could remember, on a commercial airplane. For 20 years, as commander of Allied forces in Europe, chief of staff of the Army, commander at NATO, and then as President, he has had his own private plane ready and waiting for his orders. The commercial plane trip was something of an ordeal, the general admitted, if only because at every stage, admirers pressed in on him and without any Secret Service attendants, he felt helpless.

He is reported to be considering building a house in this secluded area which he can well afford to do even if it were not for those prepared to induce him to stay. His net worth is put at anywhere from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, thanks in large part to $500,000 net he got as "capital gains" from his book, "Crusade In Europe," and the shrewd investments his millionaire friends have made for him. He can choose between the roughly $21,000 a year, with chauffeur, aides, etc., to which a retired five-star general is entitled for life or the $25,000 with aides and secretarial help that Congress voted for ex-presidents.

But even in the most splendid pleasure dome there is, for a man active all his life, an element of boredom. George Washington retired to the management of Mount Vernon. Golf cannot fill all the hours.

Pork-Barrel Grab

Alexandria, Neb.

If government is a huge pork barrel, a gigantic boondoggle, then the theory held by so many and lately expounded by the Supreme Court that the number of voters in each election district should be approximately equal is sound. If, on the other hand, law-makers are to be chosen for their ability to make the best decisions available for the people of the whole state or whole nation, not just for the benefit of particular sets of voters, then that court decision is not true at all.

It seems, though, that the first view is now quite generally accepted. The booty is there. Be sure you get in on it. Have your man there to get you your share.

RICHARD DILL

Off THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"It makes a nasty scraping noise every time I park."

Education Called 'Backward Industry'

St. Louis (AP) — A leading economist charged that public education is a backward industry, urgently in need of new ideas, techniques and approaches.

Theodore O. Yntema, former professor and a vice president of the Ford Motor Co. since 1949, said the vast new demands on the schools cannot be met merely by spending more money to expand what we are now doing.

He told the National School Boards Association, convening here, that the solution lies in greater efficiency, in providing more educational value per hour of time and dollar of cost.

Yntema said the times call for a committee for educational development, along the lines of the committee for economic development which was established early in World War II by a group of American business leaders.

Such a committee on education, he said, should be small enough and select enough to work effectively.

"It should serve primarily to take a grand view, to gather and appraise the results of specialized research, to distill the essence, and to put the weight of its prestige behind its selection of the best and wises and most urgently needed policies."

Much to Rap

Yntema found much to criticize in today's public education:

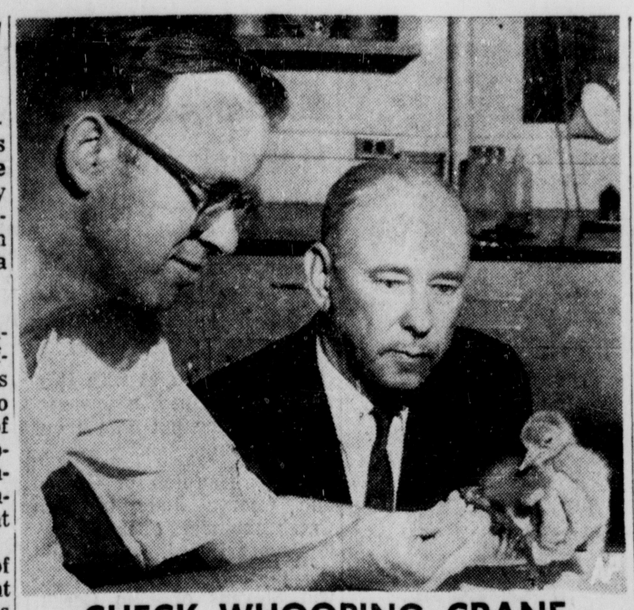

"Our school year is still geared to an agricultural economy in which children were needed to work on the farm during the summer ... A good deal of the writing and especially the revision of textbooks is directed and even done by employees of the businesses that publish them ...

"Students are rarely expected to engage in intellectual exploration ... Most education discourages the process of the inquiring mind ... The student never learns to apply mathematics to any real problem more complicated than making change or putting a stamp on a letter ...

Techniques

"Students learn the techniques of reading without sufficiently being exposed to its joys ... We probably tend to underestimate the ability of young children to grasp abstract concepts ... Conventional education stifles the innate curiosity of the young at a very tender age."

Theodore C. Sargent of Swampscott, Mass., president of the National School Boards Assocation, told the convention that if the school boards shirk their responsibility for leadership, "changes not to our liking and not in the general interest will be foisted upon us."

CHECK WHOOPING CRANE

This baby whooping crane, flown to St. Louis Thursday, is held by George Douglass, director of the Audubon Park Zoo in New Orleans, as Dr. J. M. Tufts of the Ralston Purina company examines its injured right leg. It was announced that the rare little bird suffered a slipped tendon in its right leg when it was hatching earlier this week.

Culture, Public Affairs Drug On TV Market

Chicago (UPI) — A television executive said that cultural and public affairs programs are a drug on the market unwanted and ignored by most sponsors and advertising agencies.

Ward L. Quaal, executive vice president and general manager of WGN-TV and WGN, said he had "pounded the pavements to sell several cultural programs, contemplated for prime evening time, mainly with no success."

Quaal told a Federal Communications Commission hearing that advertisers and sponsors, rather than television stations, "are the ones who are interested in the numbers game" of ratings.

Critical

He said some advertising agencies which have been critical of the television industry's record in the area of public service have refused to arrange sponsorship of such programs.

"The record will show," Quaal said, "that a lot of the agency people who do so much talking about how to run our business fail to co-operate in bettering the quality of television."

Chicago's television stations had their inning in an FCC inquiry into how they are fulfilling their public service responsibilities to their listeners.

Ill-Advised

Leroy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, last week branded the hearings "ill-advised, unfair and unwarranted." Quaal said he agreed with Collins.

Quaal was particularly critical of the FCC's decision to hold hearings that, according to the FCC, are to have no bearing on license renewals.

Quaal said hearings should be held only on applications for license renewals and should involve only the station concerned.

"I feel, frankly, we should be involved in quasi-legal proceedings, if necessary, rather than in these informal hearings," he said.

162 Telegrams

The WGN-TV executive said the station, seeking sponsors for its "Great Music from Chicago" program, sent 162 telegrams to heads of large business firms, suggesting that each buy one of the 26 broadcasts.

The station received responses from only 19, he said, and none bought time.

Quaal said WGN-TV, an independently owned station, picked up "Ding Dong School," an educational program for children, after NBC-TV dropped it.

Father, Dear Father, We Burned Down Your Bar

Cheboygan, Mich. (AP) — An old poem by Henry Clay Work is getting a new workout hereabout. The setting is before the swinging doors of an old-day saloon, the pleader a girl, and the poem goes thus:

"Father, dear father, come home with me now;
"The clock in the steeple strikes one;

Coming Right Home

"You said you were coming right home from the shop;
"As soon as your day's work was done."
Why has it been revived?

Four girls, aged 15 and 16, have been released to their parents while a juvenile court judge reaches a decision on whether they'll be prosecuted — for setting afire a former school house slated to be converted into a tavern.

State police said the girls told them they set the old Mann School afire because they were afraid if it became a tavern their dads would buy liquor there and drink to excess.

Broke Door Hasp

Police said the girls broke a door hasp and set fires with rags Wednesday night in the big one-room school 8 miles south of Cheboygan on M33. Cheboygan's fire department put out the flames but not before the front was damaged several thousand dollars.

The girls were quoted by police as saying they didn't want Robert Buchanon to exercise his option to buy and establish a tavern in the former school. Buchanon holds an option from Roland Gouine and already has obtained township board approval for a tavern license.

Buchanon estimated damages at "several thousand dollars," and said he hadn't finally decided whether to exercise his option.

Jet Lands Safely Despite Problem

New York (AP) — An Air Force jet liner with 103 persons aboard landed safely at Idlewild Airport Thursday after experiencing hydraulic trouble over the Atlantic.

The Paris to New York airliner made a routine landing with crash equipment lining the runway. Because of the hydraulic trouble the crew had difficulty lowering the landing gear.

The jet liner carried 92 passengers and a crew of 11 headed by Capt. Pierre Reynaud.

15 MINUTES IN LONDON

Miss Joy E. Steck of Pittsburgh, Pa., arrives at New York's Idlewild Airport Thursday after a 15-hour trip to London—where she spent 15 minutes—and back. A transatlantic telephone call waiting for her in London led to her sudden decision to return. Her only comment was: "I'm going home to get married."

U.S. 183 Must Be Relocated, Hossack Reports

State Engineer John Hossack said he doubts that a stretch of U.S. 183 between Elm Creek and Miller can be rebuilt without relocating most of the present road.

A delegation met with Hossack to ask him if a new surface could be put on without a relocation.

Harry Thornton of Gibbon and George Judy of Elm Creek, members of the Buffalo County Board, and Harold Oldfather of Kearney and Elwin Stevens of Elm Creek, discussed the matter with the state engineer.

They told him the county would have a hard time maintaining the 14 miles the Highway Department plans to take off the state system.

They said it would have to be maintained as a mail and school bus route because 26 families live along the 16-mile stretch.

Hossack said the department only plans to retain the two miles located on the south end of the segment.

The present road is crooked and has to be straightened to meet federal highway standards, he explained.

The 14 miles scheduled for relocation would be moved from one-fourth to three-fourths of a mile east of the present highway.

The proposed project is designed to shorten one of the gravel gaps on U.S. 183.

Handful Of Men Put USS 1st, USA 2nd

...COMMERCE CHIEF SAYS

New York (UPI) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Thursday that the steel price rise was made by a "handful of men who said in effect that United States Steel comes first, the United States of America second."

Hodges, intensifying the attack which President Kennedy made Wednesday on the steel raise, said in a statement at a news conference in the Empire State Building that he was "shocked and disappointed at this totally unexpected development."

"We have in this country, and I hope we will always have, a free economy," he said, "subject to anti-trust laws and public services requiring regulation. Any firm or industry is free to set prices as it sees fit. It is free to make mistakes and I believe the steel industry's mistake is a tragic one. Its action is a disservice to the country and to the business community as a whole."

Every Right

Hodges said "the country had every right to expect price restraint by the steel industry in the light of the international situation, the moderate labor settlement just concluded and the pressing need to avoid obstacles to further economic recovery."

"As a former businessman and as the cabinet member charged with responsibility to help achieve a healthy business condition, I am confident that the business community as a whole is disturbed by this development," Hodges said.

Hodges reiterated most of the points Kennedy made Wednesday with regard to the "squeeze on profits" leading to the announced price increase.

"If declining products are advanced as the excuse for the U.S. Steel price increase, it is hard to understand why other companies which have not suffered declining profits should now announce exactly the same price increase," Hodges said.

Hodges said one aspect of the steel price situation bothered him particularly — the question of expanding exports.

"About one-third of our total exports consists of machinery and motive products — heavy users of steel and other metals," Hodges said. "A rise in steel prices will indirectly reduce the competitiveness in world markets of many other U.S. products other than steel itself. And, of course, steel exports as such will be affected significantly."

"I do not enjoy criticizing a major American industry. I am a confirmed supporter of our free enterprise system. I do not want to see any encroachment by government on private decision-making which can be avoided. But I think there is a clear responsibility for the federal government to speak out when private actions are taken which may well jeopardize the continuation of a healthy free enterprise system. This goes for irresponsible action which may be taken by labor, by industry or any other segment."

"Despite the provocation by the leading steel companies, I call upon American industry generally to do everything possible to hold the price level. Our economic recovery requires it; our international balance of payments situation requires it; our future economic growth and prosperity requires it."

Mrs. Brooks Jabs Seaton, Gov. Morrison

Lincoln Star Special

Broken Bow — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Mrs. Ralph G. Brooks Thursday hit hard at the administration of Gov. Frank Morrison and jabbed at Republican candidate Fred Seaton.

Mrs. Brooks said she does not know "where Mr. Seaton stands on important issues."

"I have no idea," she declared, "but I think he should tell us. I am tired of waiting."

As for Morrison, Mrs. Brooks again criticized "his refusal to seek solutions in the Legislature. The doors of the Legislature were open last year, but the governor refused to go in."

Speaking before the Farm Bureau, Mrs. Brooks stressed "the urgency of adopting a broadened tax base to secure tax equality on the farm and relieve the excessive tax burden on home-owners."

She called again for state aid to schools, school district reorganization and higher professional standards.

Morrison, she said, has "refused to fight for tax reform, highway safety, aid to schools . . . and refused to raise a single crucial issue."

The Morrison solution to basic problems is "the creation of a committee, a conference by that committee and rhetoric by the governor, all designed to give a grand delusion of action."

CARMICHAEL

Court Asked To Uphold 2 Life Sentences

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer asked the State Supreme Court to uphold the sentencing of two men to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary in a 1959 Omaha double slaying.

The two, Jerry Erving and Milton Howard, have asked the court that the Douglas County District Court sentence be reversed because their constitutional rights were allegedly violated in attaining evidence against them in their trial.

They were charged with the slaying of Edward Ellis and Dorothy Elliott in their near North Side home in Omaha on Dec. 27, 1959. Ellis and Miss Elliott were found shot through the head.

Donald Williams, after being held in jail 11 days, confessed to the slayings and said Erving had helped him. He said they both had been hired by Howard to kill Ellis.

Williams said Ellis was to have been a witness against Howard in a federal narcotics trial.

The two have charged in their appeal that Omaha police had searched Erving's home without a warrant and obtained evidence which was later used in the trial.

They asserted such evidence cannot be introduced as a result of the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Mapp v. Ohio.

They further said that the prosecution in the case attempted to prejudice the jury and that they were actually being tried not only for first degree murder, but also for selling narcotics.

In his brief, Meyer said that the manner in which the evidence was obtained from Erving's home had not been objected to on the grounds that it had been unconstitutionally acquired.

He said that the trial was held more than a year before the Mapp v. Ohio decision and at that time laws of Nebraska and other states admitted such evidence.

Chicken Stealing Charge Dismissed

The County Attorney's office Thursday dismissed a complaint filed against Charles Sedlacek for the reason that the defendant is now married to the complaining witness.

Sedlacek had pleaded innocent to chicken stealing, petit larceny and habitual criminal charges.

Shah Of Iran Wants Aid

. . . PROMISES TO BATTLE COMMUNISM

Washington (AP) — The Shah of Iran gently cautioned Congress Thursday to continue U.S. foreign aid. But he coupled this with a pledge that his nation will not surrender to communism, regardless of America's action.

Mohammed Reza Pahlavi departed from the prepared text of his address to a joint session of House and Senate to say of the aid program:

"I recognize that it is a burden, and I sympathize with the desire to lay it down. But the need for it is not yet finished. The threat has not ended."

He added that if Americans lay down the load, he is sure the communists willingly will assume it.

But he softened this indirect warning by acknowledging that it is entirely up to the United States to decide what course it will take. And, he drew his loudest burst of applause from the only partially filled House chamber when he said:

"But however you decide, the people of Iran have not maintained their freedom for 2,500 years in order to now surrender."

The darkly handsome anti-communist Shah read his speech in a soft voice but dealt extensively with the hard choice which he accepted for his nation two years ago when he rejected the Soviet Union's bid for a treaty of friendship and signed a bilateral military alliance with the United States. As a result of this, the Shah said:

"We experience every day the forces of international disruption doing their utmost to beguile and delude and divert us from the path we have adopted. They do this in order to seize this gateway to the Middle East, the Indian subcontinent and Africa, by manes of falsehoods, threats and subversion."

Empress Of Iran Visits White House Grave

Washington (AP) — Under strict orders from daughter, Caroline, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Thursday led the Empress of Iran on a pilgrimage to a grave in the White House backyard.

The grave is that of Caroline's canary, Robin, who died Tuesday of unknown causes. Caroline buried Robin Wednesday with suitable ceremony.

Just before Mrs. Kennedy set out to show Queen Farah around the White House grounds, Caroline told her mother:

"Be sure to show her Robin's grave."

"That was the one thing Caroline wanted the Empress to see," Mrs. Kennedy told reporters with a laugh.

The empress, fighting back a smile, expressed suitable sorrow at the grave.

It was a gay little tour, despite the pall of sorrow at Robin's death, and despite an unpleasant drizzle.

First, Mrs. Kennedy took the empress to an upstairs schoolroom in the White House where 4-year-old Caroline and some of her little chums were taking kindergarten lessons. The lessons, it turned out, included how to curtsy and how to bow. The girls did the former when the empress appeared, and the bows dipped from the waist, like oldtime diplomats. The empress was presented with a bouquet of daffodils.

Then, the two ladies set out for a short trip over the sodden grounds. Mrs. Kennedy wore a wool-knit suit, diagonally bound, with a bit of gold braid on it, and gold buttons.

The empress was striking in a burnt-peach wool suit with a slightly eased (latest fashion) skirt.

Morrison Scores Steel Price Rise As Bad For Ag

Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday scored the recent steel price increase and said it would increase the cost of farm equipment in Nebraska and elsewhere.

"I am deeply disappointed by the announced increase in the price of steel. Agriculture is one of the largest steel markets. The cost-price squeeze on our farmers and ranchers has resulted in an alarming drop in agriculture profits.

"The announced anti-inflationary steel settlement was the best news that this nation has had for a long time. But the inflationary action of steel management to start another round of inflation is difficult to understand.

"At a time when America is to compete on the world market for trade, we have been put in an adverse position by the rise in steel—the basic industry that eventually controls all prices of all commodities.

"This could result in literally thousands of dollars of loss of real income to Nebraska—both from the standpoint of lost sales on the world market and from increased costs to our already suffering agriculture industry."

Sen. Russillo Questions Legislative Apportionment

Omaha (AP)— State Sen. Michael Russillo asked the Nebraska attorney general Thursday whether the present apportionment of the Nebraska Legislature is constitutional.

The Omaha legislator asked Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer to rule on these questions:

Does the proposed amendment to the Nebraska constitution which would give a 20-30% weight to area in any redistricting of the legislature conform to the U.S. Constitution?

What remedies are open to voters of Nebraska's larger counties to seek reapportionment without going to federal court?

"The question of equitable apportionment of state legislatures has become increasingly a matter of serious concern in the United States," Russillo said.

He noted that a number of suits have been filed in state courts seeking reapportionment when legislatures, "in nearly every case dominated by rural interests," failed to carry out reapportionment.

Russillo listed the first largest counties, their current representation in the Legislature and what he said representation should be according to the 1960 census:

Douglas County, current population 343,490, current representation 7, proposed representation 10.64; Lancaster 155,272, 3 and 4.81; Hall 35,575, 1 and 1.11; Scotts Bluff 33,809 1 and 1.5; Dodge 32,471, 1 and 1.

Gundersen Tabbed

Other officers include Roger Meckes, leading knight; Clarence Eglehoff, loyal knight; Victor Kotouc, lecturing knight; William Hahn Jr., squire; Lyle Leet, chaplain; George Caley, inner guard; C. L. Cook, tiler; A. F. Tramp, secretary; and Oscar Sandall, treasurer.

Behlen Sales Are Up 33%

Columbus (AP) —The Behlen Manufacturing Co., reported Thursday that earnings for the fiscal year ended Feb. 25, were $1.16 per share as compared with 57 cents per share during the previous year.

Walter D. Behlen, president, said earnings were $1,237,565. Total sales were up 33% to $17,403,069.

Mrs. Campbell, Dale To Receive Awards

Wayne (UPI)—Distinguished service awards will be presented to two persons at Wayne State Teachers College graduation ceremonies April 19.

Those to be honored are Mrs. Anne Campbell of Norfolk, president of the Nebraska Education Association, and Professor Emeritus Fred Dale.

$1,200,000 School Issue On Ballot

Kimball (AP)—Kimball voters will ballot next Tuesday on a $1,200,000 bond issue for a proposed new high school. A 55% majority will be required.

Proposed building would be a 90,000-square-foot structure with a 750-seat auditorium, a gymnasium wing which could seat 1,200, classrooms, cafeteria and kitchen, laboratories and offices.

In April, 1960, the voters turned down a proposal to levy 5 mills a year for 10 years, and in July of the same year the voters rejected a proposed 3-mill tax for 3 years. The bond issue now proposed is expected to require a 4-mill levy for 16 years to pay principal and interest.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

We have placed five quid on a bangtail name of Nicolaus Silver in the Grand National this day. We shall see what we shall see.

"Horse betting is a legal sport in Britain," said Mr. Al Wagstaff, the American travel agent of London. "It has Royal approval — The Queen is a punter—that's what they call a bettor here.

"You bet with your bookmaker by telephone. At the end of the week, he sends you a check—if you're lucky. Or he sends you a bill.

"It is the custom here to pay your bookmaker before anyone else. They have a club—you should visit it, it's a staid, proper thing like the Union League Club or something.

"If you don't pay your bookmaker, they close off your phone credit."

☆ ☆ ☆

Bookmaking is big in England. The largest firm, William Hill, showed profits last year of some $1,300,000. Shares in the company are quoted on the Stock Exchange.

Chemin de fer has been legalized. Betting in the bigger clubs has a $150 opening ante. The gambling profit is based on the operator taking a small percentage—that is, there is no betting against the house.

There is some talk of putting in roulette with the zero and double zero eliminated—the factor that makes roulette 5 5-19 per cent in favor of the house.

The great American game of craps (and the love of Nevada gamblers for its small 1.4 house favor) doesn't stir the British blood.

☆ ☆ ☆

"What really goes here is the football pools," said Mr. Wagstaff. "You can bet as low as a ha'penny and win as high as a million dollars.

"Another thing, gambling winnings are tax free in the United Kingdom."

The football pools operate on the some 60 or more games being played on the weekend. You try to choose 8 games that will end in a tie.

If you hit them—bank night!

☆ ☆ ☆

Bingo for the ladies pulls an estimated 3,000,000 housewives away from the kitchen sink every afternoon.

The bingo club members (and you pay an admission fee, too) have developed an interesting slang, as colorful as craps.

"Two fat ladies" is number 88.

Number one is "Kelly's eye."

Number nine is "Doctor's orders."

☆ ☆ ☆

Two slot machines (fruit machines in English) are allowed in each private club.

(You can calculate the strength of this: Taking half a dozen out of the San Francisco Press Club just about broke it. The Australian Press Club put in half a dozen recently in Sydney. Profits let them open a half million dollar top floor and bowling alley.)

☆ ☆ ☆

The amount on horse race gambling is hard to figure. But on the Tote alone—the track betting through the totalizer—the amount spent last year was $130,000,000.

A do-it-yourself horse race can be bet on movies in a chain of betting houses. They use 1200 colored movies of horse races, imported from America.

(Even the Government gets into the act. The sale of Premium Bonds paid 1,153,000 prizes last year. (They are figured out by something called "Electronic Ernie.") The odds for the Government —9600-to-1.

Which is what keeps the punters punting and merry England merry.

GEN. LUCIUS CLAY SAYS:

Berlin Settlement May Be Possible

Washington (AP) — New U.S.-Soviet talks on Berlin will start Monday and Gen. Lucius D. Clay said Thursday a peaceful settlement of the long-festering dispute may be possible.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White announced that Secretary Dean Rusk has called in the new Soviet ambassador, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Monday afternoon for another U.S.-Soviet discussion on ways to solve the Germany-Berlin issue.

Previous U.S.-Soviet rounds on this major cold war sore point were conducted last fall and again earlier this year with inconclusive results. The Russians continued to press for a Berlin solution which the Western powers say would damage their vital interests in the city.

The announcement came as Clay, who is quitting his assignment as President Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin, was reporting separately to Kennedy and Rusk on the situation of the communist-surrounded city.

The retired general, known as the man who broke the Reds' 1948-9 Berlin blockade, gave newsmen the most optimistic picture to come publicly from a high U.S. official since Soviet Premier Khrushchev set off the current Berlin crisis nearly a year ago.

Kennedy himself declined to express optimism at his news conference Wednesday although he announced Clay's return and the forthcoming release of U.S. reservists called to active duty last summer.

Clay, who was sent to West Berlin last September to boost the city's morale following the communist's reaction of the Berlin wall, said he told Rusk:

"We have reached a new position as far as the allies are concerned in Berlin. Tensions are less than they have been for some time, and the situation will probably last for some time to come."

Noting the halt of the Soviet harassments of Berlin air corridors and other developments, he said "in the improved atmosphere, there's more hope of negotiations being successful than there is in a period of danger and tension."

GEN. LUCIUS D. CLAY

"The West Berliners have regained their morale and have recovered from the shock of the wall," Clay continued. "They realize our determination to maintain the access, the independence, and the viability (economic soundness) of West Berlin.

"In recent weeks there has been a real lessening of Soviet harassments in Berlin so there's little left for me to do. The very competent people on the scene can handle it on a day-to-day basis."

Clay, however, did caution that "it's important to remember we have won a battle — it's a victory for us — but we have not won a campaign."

And while he is returning to his civilian job as board chairman of the Continental Can Co., Clay said that if "Berlin is ever in real trouble, I will be back one way or another — you can be sure of that."

Kennedy is asking Clay to stand by on a consultant basis and make periodic trips to Berlin. The general said he will return to Berlin Sunday and remain several weeks to close out his assignment.

Among undertakings he wants to take care of are projects for getting more American private investment in Berlin and establishing additional cultural facilities there.

Vatican Paper Warns Miss Taylor May Be Heading For 'Erotic Vagrancy'

Rome (UPI) — The Vatican City weekly Osservatore Della Domenica warned Elizabeth Taylor Thursday that the life she is leading could end in "erotic vagrancy" and questioned her right to keep the year-old girl she recently adopted.

Miss Taylor's name was not mentioned but an open letter addressed simply "Dear Madam" was an unmistakable attack on the actress prompted by the breakup of her marriage to Eddie Fisher, her fourth husband.

Osservatore Della Domenica is considered the weekly supplement of the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano, but it is not as reticent or as formal as the daily. Both are printed in the Vatican state but are not "official" Vatican organs although both reflect its viewpoint.

The open letter in part said:

"Dear Madam:

"When a short time ago you said that your marriage (the fourth, to be exact) would last for a lifetime there were those who shook their heads in a rather skeptical way. We, always willing to believe the best, kept a steady head and didn't say a word. When afterwards you even went so far as to adopt a baby girl, almost as if to make more stable a bond which had no natural children, we really believed for a moment that things could have changed...

"And if your marriage is dead then we have got to say, as they say in Rome, it was killed dead. The trouble, my dear lady, is that you are killing too many of them. Even considering the one that was finished by a natural solution there remain 3 husbands buried with no other motive than a greater love that killed the one before..."

UNPOLICED A-TEST BAN IS REJECTED

...BY UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN

Geneva (AP) — The United States and Britain rejected Thursday a Soviet demand for an unpoliced moratorium on nuclear weapons tests, despite mounting pressure from small nations in favor of such a step.

The two Western powers told the 17-nation disarmament conference they had been fooled once by Russian promises on the subject of testing and did not intedntof testing and did not intend to fall into the same trap again.

With a shake of his head, American Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said:

"With regret, we do not have any confidence in a Soviet pledge."

Rejection of the moratorium means the United States test series now being prepared in the Christmas Island area of the central Pacific definitely will take place later this month unless the Russians at the last minute accept an internationally controlled nuclear test ban.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said that was out of the question. He denounced again the policing arrangements favored by the Western powers to prevent cheating on a test ban treaty.

Zorin sprung the moratorium idea at a moment when the United States and Britain clearly were on the defensive. One after another, delegates from the smaller powers called for no more nuclear tests. Even America's close neighbors, Canada and Mexico, took this position.

Lt. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada said "the hour is getting late" to prevent a new testing race.

Students Study Effects Of Hormones On Chicks

STAR PHOTO

AT WORK . . . Ida Marie Palazzolo and Linda Franson conduct experiment with chicks.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

By WOODY HOWE
Star Staff Writer

A demonstration of the effect of sex hormones on young chicks will be one of 150 science displays Saturday at University High School.

Ida Marie Palazzolo, Linda Franson and Kristie Hayes, 7th graders at Millard Lefler Junior High School, have been working on their chick experiment for over a month in preparation for the Nebraska Academy of Junior Sciences' weekend exhibit.

With the assistance of their advisor, Robert L. Budd, a teacher, the girls innoculated 16 baby chicks, some with male hormones, some with female hormones.

The young male chicks (cockerels) that the girls had given female hormones grew combs slower than the cockerals that had not been innoculated, and did not crow as they should have.

Girls Grow Combs

The females (pullets) that had male hormones grew combs and began crowing in about 9 days.

The girls had their chicks in the classroom for several weeks, then moved them to Miss Palazzolo's house.

The academy's displays Saturday will come from schools throughout eastern Nebraska. They will be on view from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Gunner Overgaard, the Southeast High School teacher who is chairman of the Lincoln section of the academy, said this year's exhibits would have a heavy emphasis on space travel.

There would also be displays of micro-photography, astro-photography, microbiology and radiation, he said.

Dr. Walter French of Wesleyan University will read a paper on the neutron source at 11:15 a.m. Saturday, following two presentations of student research papers.

The public is invited to hear this program as well as to see the exhibits.

CambridgePhone Co. Given Loan For $612,000

The Cambridge Telephone Co. is getting a $612,000 loan from the Rural Electrification Administration to convert its exchanges to dial.

Gov. Frank Morrison announced that the loan was being made Thursday after receiving word of it from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This will mean improved telephone service to 885 existing subscribers and 74 others to be added under the modernization program, Morrison said.

He also said it would mean the construction of new dial and central offices at Bartley and Cambridge, the construction of 56 miles of new lines and the rebuilding of 272 miles of existing lines.

The firm has already received Railway Commission approval for the loan, the governor said.

A. A. Mousel, president of the First National Bank in Cambridge, is president of the Cambridge Telephone Co. Harlan Stewart is the manager.

Industry Chemicals Fretting City Sewage Plant

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Bacteria-killing chemicals found in certain industrial wastes are causing a serious problem for Lincoln's Sewage Treatment Plant, Public Works Director D. L. Erickson told The Star Thursday.

Erickson said his department and Black and Veatch, consulting engineers, have conferred on possible ordinances requiring pre-treatment of these industrial wastes before discharge into the city sewage system.

"No decisions have been made yet," he said. "The matter is still under discussion and study."

Bacteria are required for sludge digestion. Chemicals which interfere with the bacteria result in a slow-down or stoppage of the sewage treatment action.

Erickson said "chromium salts" were a prime suspect in the problem, but further analysis has disclosed "even greater amounts of a copper compound," which also kills bacteria and stops or interferes with the sewage digestion process.

Sources of the chemicals have not been traced, but Erickson said industrial processes rather than domestic wastes are the probable sources.

Erickson said other cities which have experienced industrial waste problems have adopted control ordinances.

Meanwhile, an internal drain line is proposed for construction at the 24th and Theresa plant to "draw off grease and undigested sludge from the clarifier tank."

Erickson said the residue "will be dried and then burned or hauled away."

By-Pass Bid

The low bid of $8,146 by the Chambers Construction Co. for the by-pass line is to be recommended Monday to the City Council.

The 1962-67 capital improvement program proposes $500,000 worth of improvements to the treatment plant, including additional pre-aeration tank, sedimentation tank and sludge digester.

The project, proposed for 1965-67 construction, would be financed with sewer use revenues and revenue bonds.

The public works director reports that improvements are needed to keep plant capacity abreast of population growth.

Recommended in the 1962-63 program by the department is a study and report to determine needed expansion and improvements at the plant. The study is estimated at $20,000.

Black and Veatch are currently making a $14,500 study of Lincoln's sewage system needs for eastern growth and particularly in the Stevens Creek watershed. The study is being financed by the Sanitary District for the benefit of the city.

... Who Burgled Bank? Jail Inmates

Jefferson City, Mo. (AP) — A strange story came to light Thursday about two prisoners who made a key to the jail, let themselves out, robbed a bank, then went back and locked themselves up with no one the wiser.

It happened at Waynesville, Mo., last Dec. 7 and the mystery has just been solved as a result of a tip from a prisoner in another jail.

Authorities said the two burglars have admitted their escapade.

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the highway patrol, told newsmen about it in response to their questions. He said the case has been turned over to the FBI.

He identified the men as Lenard Albert McKinnon, 18, of Waynesville and Raymond Selmer Meade Jr., 20, a Wisconsin parolee.

McKinnon is now serving a two-year term at Algoa intermediate reformatory for a burglary at Crocker, Mo. Meade is a patient at the state hospital at Nevada.

Negotiators Are Hopeful

... All Will Be Freed

Havana (AP) —Cuban exile negotiators expressed belief Thursday they can win the freedom of all the 1,179 prisoners from the Bay of Pigs invasion, whose ransom was fixed by a Cuban court at $62 million.

The 4-member committee from Miami made a start by arranging for the release of 54 sick or wounded captives, with payment to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government to be made through the Royal Bank of Canada.

Returning Saturday

A communique announced the committee and two physicians will escort the 54 on a flight to Miami Saturday.

The communique reported "indemnities for these men will be paid under the responsibility of the committee."

At the announced bedrock price of $25,000 a man, the total would be $1,350,000.

One of the negotiators told a newsman, "Dr. Castro is highly interested in carrying out the deal and has been extremely nice to all of us."

Congregational Constitution OKd; Officers Renamed

Ainsworth (AP) — The Nebraska Congregational Conference has ratified a new constitution.

The new constitution was made necessary by the merger of the Congregational and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches.

The conference re-elected all its officers who will serve until the next conference, probably in the fall. At that time the Congregationalists are expected to meet with Evangelical and Reformed church representatives. The two churches will merge.

Officers include the Rev. Albert C. Becker, Fremont, moderator; Mrs. Arthur W. Taylor, Scottsbluff, assistant moderator; and Max Meyer, Lincoln, treasurer.

Mrs. Ray Stanley of Ralston was installed as head of the women's fellowship.

The directors will set the date and site for the fall conference. Omaha and Fremont have issued invitations.

The Nebraska conference claims to be the first to have approved the constitution for the proposed merger.

Dope May Have Played Part In Death Of Phipps

New York (AP) —Authorities Thursday expressed the possibility that narcotics might have played a part in the death of socially prominent Henry Ogden Phipps, 30-year-old heir to a fortune.

The vital organs of Phipps, who was found dead Wednesday night in a Manhattan hotel, were ordered sent to a toxicologist for chemical analysis.

Detectives who entered his locked suite at the Hamilton Hotel found Phipps lying face-up on the floor. There were no marks of violence on his body.

Chief medical examiner Milton Halpern said after an autopsy that death was the result of congestion of the internal organs.

In addition to the chemical analysis, he said he was sending a report to Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan.

The reason for the report, he told newsmen, was because of the general condition of Phipps' body and the possibility of "narcotism." Detectives earlier called circumstances of his death mysterious.

Son of Ogden

Phipps was the son of Ogden Phipps, prominent in social and turf circles, and Mrs. Marshall Field III, widow of the heir to the department store fortune and founder of the Chicago Sun.

Detectives said they had been informed that Phipps had been under the care of a physician for a nervous condition. A hypodermic needle of the type used by physicians was found in his suite, they said.

Phipps was married at Kingston, Jamiaca, in 1957 to Diana Sternberg, daughter of Count and Countess Leopold Sternberg, a prominent Czechoslovakian family. They have a two-year-old daughter.

Had A Home

Phipps maintained a home on Central Park West in Manhattan, but had been living at the hotel since Feb. 13.

His father, a horse breeder and owner, is vice chairman of the Jockey Club. His grandmother is Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps of Palm Beach, Fla., owner of the famed Wheatley racing stable.

The entire string of his father's horses were withdrawn from racing at Aqueduct following word of the death.

IRENE HAD A LITTLE LAMB

Mary and her lamb had their moments and so did Irene Safren and her lamb Thursday. Irene, a pig-tailed hostess at the Philadelphia zoo children's section, posed with a lamb to mark the opening of the children's zoo and the lamb decided to bite Irene on the nose. "Didn't hurt," explained Irene, "she's just friendly."

Dobson Bids Low On 5 City Jobs For Paving Work

Dobson Bros. Construction Co. was apparent low bidder on 5 paving districts, city officials said Thursday.

The districts and bids were No. 1764, 50th from Leighton to Walker, $5,297.80; No. 1765, 41st from Adams to Greenwood, Greenwood from 41st to 43rd and Knox from Greenwood to 43rd, $28,663.10; No. 1778, Deweese Dr. from 56th to Francis, $18,875; No. 1668 for Greenwood from 43rd to 44th, $6,444 and No. 1757, Oldham from 53rd to Normal 2nd Addition, $3,947,60.

Pioneer Paving Co. was low at $3,893.10 for Paving District 1496 for 42nd from Vine to Paradise Park Addition.

CookConstruction Submits Low Bid On Poultry Work

The George Cook Construction Co. of Lincoln Thursday submitted an apparent low bid of $349,517 for construction of a 12-building complex for the University of Nebraska's poultry department.

The bid, including grading and all other work, was far in excess of the basic estimate of slightly in excess of $200,000.

University Business Manager Carl Donaldson said the bids will be studied before recommendation is made on acceptance or rejection.

Other bidders, all of Lincoln: M. W. Anderson $359,758; Kingery Construction $364,660; and Olson, $367,966.

Board Takes Liberal Stand On Vacations

The City Personnel Board recommended partial liberalization of city vacation policy in a report Thursday to the City Council.

Recommended was that city employes be allowed to carry over one week's vacation time into the following year with departmental approval.

However, the board declined to recommend additional vacation time as requested by the City Employes Association (CEA).

The board cited economic factors and practices in private business in not recommending this change, but promised the matter would be reviewed again in the future.

The CEA had proposed an additional week to the regular two-week vacation time after 10 years and two weeks additional after 20 years of employment.

Present policy is for two additional days after 15 years, two more after 20 and a total of 5 extra days after 25 years.

The CEA urged that its vacation proposals would bring city policy in line with those of the state of Nebraska, and Omaha, Denver, Des Moines and Springfield, Ill.

Air Command Posts Beefed Up By SAC

Omaha (AP)—The Air Force announced Thursday it will put more Strategic Air Command airborne command posts into operation.

The new flying headquarters will be specially modified KC135 tankers and B47 bombers.

Since February, 1961, SAC has been using special KC-135s flying out of Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha. The planes maintain continuous contact with the joint war room in the Pentagon in Washington and Air Force command posts. There always is a general officer aboard prepared to take command of SAC should the underground post at Offutt, or its alternates, be knocked out.

The additions, said the Air Force, "are designed to further increase this already operational command and control network."

The Lincoln Air Force Base will be affected by the plan to expand the airborne command and control network, Rep. Phil Weaver R-Neb. said in Washington.

He did not, however, elaborate on the LAFB role.

Stare Speaks At Nutrition Conference

Dr. Frederick J. Stare, professor of nutrition at Harvard University school of public health, reviewed "Common Sense Nutrition" for delegates to the 4-state nutrition conference at the Nebraska Center Thursday night.

Other speakers on the Thursday agenda of the 3-day conference included Arlene Payne, graduate student at the University of Chicago, who discussed how the dietitian views her nutrition education responsibilities; Maxine Schade of Southeast Missouri State College, who reviewed the challenge of nutrition education in a school system, and Adelia Beeuwkes, president of the American Dietetic Assn., speaking on "The Science of Nutrition—Cornerstone of a Profession."

Dr. Madelene Donnelly, director of the division of maternal and child health of the Iowa Department of Health, lectured on "Responsibility of the Obstetrician as Related to Nutrition."

Friday's final sessions will feature talks by Dr. Robert Joslin, research director of Fairmont Foods and Donald Horsh, associate director of two St. Louis clinics.

Honeymooners Mad; Airline Failed To Deliver Pajamas

By EDDY GILMORE

London (AP) — Bridegroom Anthony Gill asked an airline Thursday to pay him compensation for failing to deliver his pajamas while he was on honeymoon.

"The way they carried on you would have thought I was an international smuggler," he said in an interview. "It was ridiculous and almost spoiled our honeymoon."

What happened was this:

Two weeks ago, Tony wed a pretty 22-year-old named Barbara. On the way to London airport the bridegroom suddenly remembered.

"My pajamas", he gasped. "They're in a suitcase with some other things back at my house."

A friend offered to go get them and ship the bag by air. So, Gill and his wife left for the sunny island of Majorca.

Posted It

The friend collected the suitcase and, at a cost of 4 pounds 11 shillings 6 pence ($12.81), posted it at London Airport.

At the airport in Palma, Majorca, the bridegroom waited.

The bag with the pajamas didn't arrive.

Still No Bag

The honeymooners went back the next day — and waited. Still no bag.

Same thing happened the following day.

Hours that the honeymooners should have been spending in the sun, they spent at the airport.

The bridegroom telephoned his mother in Britain. She promised to check. She checked and learned nothing. She telephoned her son.

Needed List

Wednesday night, the honeymoon over, Gill returned and discovered that the package had not been sent because customs officers needed a detailed list of the suitcase's contents.

"I want compensation — and a written apology from the airline," said Gill.

His wife said:

"He managed to buy just about everything he needed in Majorca — except Pajamas."

Film Ban Asked

Manila (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's associations in Rome with actor Richard Burton have stirred a furor among women members of the Philippine House of Representatives. Two have asked for a ban on all Taylor films as a result.

NO HEX ON HER

Friday the 13th carries no fears for Susan Annette Painter. The Jacksonville, Fla., lass is 13 years old the 13th. As you can see, she's flaunting some beliefs about causes of bad luck. She's opened an umbrella in the house, broken a mirror and has a mostly black cat. She says she won't have another birthday on Friday until 1973. (Please turn to page 24 for another Friday the 13th picture.)

Former Nazi Leader Taken

Vienna, Austria (AP)—Austrian police announced the arrest of Robert Jan Verbelen, onetime deputy of Belgian nazi leader Leon Degrelle and twice sentenced to death in absentia after World War II for war crimes.

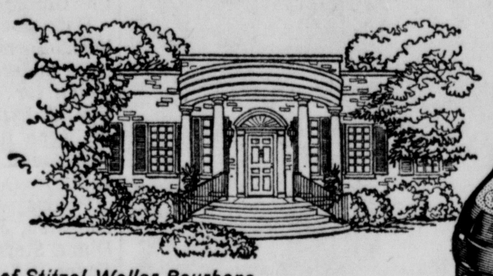

Police said Verbelen, 51, who had been living in Vienna since 1945 under his real name and became a naturalized Austrian citizen in 1959, was arrested on the basis of information supplied by Belgian authorities and the Belgian resistance movement.

Verbelen was head of the Belgian Nazi security service, counterpart of the German Gestapo, during the World War II Nazi occupation, police said. At one time he also was commanding officer of the Belgian SS division "Langemark," police added.

The Twist Was Once A Gentle Affair

The twist, the current dancing rage, may seem modern. The case, however, is not so.

It was invented in 1928 in Britain, and it was a British gal, June Wilkinson, who brought the twist to its climax in Lincoln.

The brown-eyed blonde beauty, who recently was crowned the Queen of the Twist, deserves the title.

Miss Wilkinson, who was in Lincoln Thursday to promote her latest picture, "Twist All Night," said she does the twist about 40 times a day for publicity reasons.

She admits she's sick of the twist, but adds, "It's good exercise, and I do have to keep in shape."

Twist she does — even in a telephone booth, both sitting and standing she proved to an Omaha photographer.

Her visit coincided with numerous twisting activities in Lincoln.

The Starview theater is featuring Miss Wilkinson's movie through next week.

Twist Revue

Tonight, the '62 Twist Revue is scheduled at Pershing Auditorium.

Three Lincoln couples and two local bands will be featured at the 8 p.m. show, along with other bands — The Ravens, The Teen Beats and The Flames.

Other champions twisters will be in the revue from New York, Chicago, Sioux City and Minnesota University.

Perry Murphy of Lincoln will be master of ceremonies.

Miss Wilkinson will not be present.

The dance, which has hit both young and old, is considered by some as an exercise, others call it a back-breaking experience.

Hit 3 Months Ago

The new dance was felt the strongest about 3 months ago, according to reports from the city's dance school and YWCA instructors.

They all offer instruction in the twist, even junior high school Y-teen members are learning it.

Most of the instructors admit they teach only the basic step, and let the dancers take it from there on their own as far as variation goes.

"We do it to warm up," says Mrs. Joanne Cady, who has her own daning school. One of her classes is incorporating jazz, the twist and cha-cha in some of the dances.

Judy Keys, who teaches the YWCA's group, has an assortment of teenagers and married couples.

"It really surprised me when it was the older ones who expressed the desire to learn the twist," added Miss Keys.

Although the twist is new in Lincoln, and has been popular on both coasts for several years, it dates back longer than that.

A twist on the twist was uncovered in Lincoln.

Today's twist started 34 years ago, according to one report.

"A much more subtle affair," it was introduced to Londoners in high style, according to a clipping from the London Daily Telegraph mailed to Patrick Horsbrugh, who teaches architecture at the University of Nebraska.

The item appeared in the letters to the editor column headed "Old Twisters" from Valerie Clemson-Young of Torquay, who apparently had first hand information.

She quoted an Aug. 30, 1928, news story:

"Many people gathered in the Salle des Fetes of the Regina Hotel, Besancon, last evening, during a private dance gala given in honour of Valerie and Clemson, the talented English dancers.

"The Prix Dance d'Elegance of Europe gave the exhibition of the new dance, 'The Twist' invented by Camille de Rhynal.

"The Prime Minister and Mrs. Baldwin were present . . ."

The writer added: "My sketch shows one of the original twist steps. We were congratulated on our grace.

"The twist was a much more gentle affair."

Court Will Hear Constitutionality Cases May 8, 10

The State Supreme Court set May 8 and 10 as the days for oral arguments in two cases concerning the constitutionality of state laws.

On May 8 the court will hear arguments in the case involving the city of Grand Island in which it is charged that the state law giving district courts authority to approve zoning laws for first class cities is unconstitutional.

On May 10 the court will hear the case in which Mrs. Lila Meyerkorth of Shubert and the Emmanuel Assn. of Colorado are charging that laws giving the State Board of Education power to rule on the qualifications of teachers in religious schools are unconstitutional.

In other action the court placed on proposed call for the session beginning May 28 the appeal by Frontier Airlines to the Cherry County District Court decision assessing the airlines a $12,000 fine in a contempt of court proceeding.

The airline charges that the fine, levied after Frontier stopped service to Segment 13 of its northern Nebraska route, is unreasonable and over that which law permits the court to levy.

In Suburbia

We have news today of parties—both the dinner and the birthday variety—also newcomers, babies, and guests, but since space is so short, perhaps we should get to the news at once—

PARK MANOR

Understand that a progressive dinner was the top item on the agenda last Sunday evening for several Park Manor residents. Beginning at 6:30 o'clock, the group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nelson for an informal canape party.

From the Nelsons' the group journeyed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Farmer for the entree course, followed by dessert at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dalby.

Present for the evening of traveling and dining were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. William Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mohler, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lang, the Rev. and Mrs. Verne Spindell, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Poppe, Mr. and Mrs. Farmer and Mr. and Mrs. Dalby and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson.

We learned there was quite a surprise in store for Miss Connie Breitfelder last Saturday evening when, accompanied by Tom Dean, she called at the home of Tom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean. There, waiting for Connie's arrival, was a group of her friends—ten, in all—who had gathered for a surprise birthday party.

On hand for the anniversary festivities, which included dancing and birthday cake, were Betty Aandahl, Janet Sweet, Betty DeMars, Jane Irvan, Kathy Bourke, Mike McCarty, Doug Barrett, Bernie Rempe, Steve Lucas, and Bob Schneider.

In the moving department this morning we learned that Mr. and Mrs. C. Hardy Leggett moved to Lincoln from York the last of March. Mr. and Mrs. Leggett, who are now residing at 2001 Broadmoore Drive, have three children, Laurie, who is five, and twin boys, Brian and Bradley, who are four.

Mr. Legget is a graduate of York College, and Mrs. Leggett, who also attended York College, has been teaching in the York vicinity for four years.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

Leaving Patrician Heights the first of the month were Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Stemm, who formerly resided at 901 Mahoney Drive. Their new address, although a temporary one, is 1932 No. Cotner. Dr. and Mrs. Stemm have three children, Dick, 14, Rhonda, 12, and Shannon, who is two. Both Rhonda and Dick attend Culler School.

COTNER TERRACE

And in the newcomers department is news of the arrival of Miss Shawn Kelly Coffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeVern Coffey, who was born at Lincoln General Hospital on Sunday, April 1, and came home to Cotner Terrace last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffey also have two other daughters, Rochelle Lynn, who is five, and Kimberly Joy, who is two-going-on-three.

Shawn's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith of Stamford, and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Coffey also of Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith arrived in Lincoln for a visit with their new granddaughter recently and Mrs. Smith remained to continue her visit until this week end.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Kaufmann, Jr., on Sunday included Mrs. Kaufmann's mother, Mrs. Sam Large, and her brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Towle and their children, Sandy and Lori, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hudson and their children, Larry, Jerry and Sammy. The group gathered to honor Mrs. Large on her birthday and completing the family group were the Kaufmann children, Randy and Vicky.

Understand that Mrs. Richard Reid was hostess at her home last Friday evening at a neighborhood get-together and dessert supper. Included among the guests were Mrs. Richard Hall, Mrs. Duane Sieckmann, Mrs. John Graf, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Leonard Barnhill, Mrs. Robert Maxwell, Mrs. Opal Allison, and Miss Arlene Brakhage.

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

Coming from Wichita, Kan., are Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Daniels, Park Valley Heights newcomers. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, who now reside at 967 No. 56th, have three children, Debra Ann, 9, and Bobby, 7, who attend Culler School, and Curtis James, who is 16 months old. They arrived in Lincoln Monday, March 26.

Dear Abby

Other Side of Story

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would print something in your column about hairdressers. Why do they think they have to talk all the time? I go to the beauty parlor for a hair-do, not to listen to how hard they work, petty gossip about the other employees in the shop and all the dirt about the person they took care of before me. I travel quite a bit and find that it is the same no matter where I go. My husband says this is true of barbers, too.

BORED

DEAR BORED: I also travel quite a bit, and I get the other side of the story. Hairdressers tell me they wish their customers would just relax and be quiet instead of telling them their troubles and gossiping about everyone they know. My husband gets around a lot, too, and tells me this is what the barbers tell him.

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our dorm who is a knockout to look at. She has a face and figure every girl envies and she has a great personality to go with it. Our problem is that she must be afraid of men. She is asked for dates, but if a boy even tries to put his arm around her she hauls off and just about fractures his skull. They say that it is like pulling teeth to get her to go out a second time with a fellow who is even mildly affectionate. How can we help her?

DORM MATES

DEAR DORM MATES: Fix her up with a dental student!

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nine years. I married young just to get out of the house. I was completely honest with my husband and told him before he married me that I didn't love him. He said he would take that chance and I would learn to love him later.

We have five beautiful children. I respect him and admire him and am proud to be his wife because he is a kind and generous man and a wonderful father, but I still have not learned to love him. I am a good and faithful wife, but I know now that I will never have the kind of love every woman dreams of. (Not within my marriage at least.) Should I continue this loveless marriage? I am thinking of my children.

MISSING SOMETHING

DEAR MISSING: Keep thinking of those children. Many women have written to tell me that they married for "love" (the kind every woman dreams of) but it didn't last long. The reasons: they neither admired nor respected their husbands. If yours is kind, generous and a wonderful father, count your blessings. No one has everything!

DEAR ABBY: At a party for a "guest of honor," who should go home first? My husband said that it is bad manners for a guest to leave a party before the guest of honor. I say that when a party is given in honor of someone, that person certainly should not leave a house full of guests who have come to honor him. I would like you to settle this, please.

ARLINGTON

DEAR ARLINGTON: The guest of honor leaves first. is the cue for the other guests to ask for their hats. And pronto!

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Why Grow Old?

Exercise To Relax

Josephine Lowman

If you've been tied up in knots, try this exercise, described in "Why Grow Old?" today; it will relax you.

The saying, "I am tied up in knots," comes nearer to being literally truer than you think. When you have been worried or hurried, emotionally and nervously tense, your muscles also become tense, and this residual tension can last for quite a while.

Exercise is the best medicine possible for ridding your muscle of tension. Once they are relaxed you will be, too. It is practically impossible to be completely relaxed physically and tense emotionally.

I know you won't believe it until you try it and so I hope you try the following exercises when you feel the need of them.

Stand erect with your feet comfortably separated. Let your arms, head and trunk drop limply forward. Let your shoulders drop forward also. Dangle in this way for a moment. Then lift your head and trunk and pull your arms backward, palms facing forward. At the same time lower your head backward. Again drop the arms, head, shoulders and trunk forward. Continue. This exercise should be done very slowly. The first part should be limply done and the next slowly with a stretching motion. Exhale as you drop your trunk and inhale deeply as you straighten up.

Stand tall. Make large circles with your arms, circling forward-upward, back and down for a while, and then move in the opposite direction. Do this slowly. Bend the elbows as your arms move forward-upward and straighten them as the arms move back and down.

If you would like to have my exercises for relaxing, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 24 to Josephine Lowman in care of the Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

What Is Your Bid?

B. Jay Becker

QUIZ

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠— ♥J8652 ♦AQJ83 ♣AKQ
2. ♠KQJ5 ♥AQ82 ♦7 ♣KJ64
3. ♠QJ964 ♥— ♦AKJ ♣Q9752
4. ♠9875 ♥842 ♦AKJ ♣AQ9
5. ♠AKJ ♥764 ♦AK93 ♣KJ5

1. One heart. There is no good reason to vary from the usual rule of first bidding the higher ranking of two touching suits of equal length. Of course, from the standpoint of quality, the diamonds are stronger, but this should not be permitted to interfere with the normal process of bidding the higher ranking suit first.

The ultimate goal is to choose as trump the suit in which a side has numerical superiority, and this goal might be missed if the diamonds were named before the hearts. Partner could reasonably assume that the diamonds were longer than the hearts if they were bid first.

The hand is playable in hearts if partner has three of them. If the hearts were bid secondarily, partner would not be apt to raise with only three hearts, because he would be afraid the suit was four cards in length.

2. One club. This follows the standard procedure of bidding the suit beneath the singleton in hands where the distribution is 4-4-4-1. Experiment will show that following this method permits all three suits to be shown at the lowest possible level.

3. One club. Here, also, economy of bidding space is served by opening with a club instead of a spade. Generally, the higher ranking of two five-card suits is bid first, but where the suits involved are spades and clubs the clubs are named first. Later, the spades are repeated to show they are five cards in length.

4. One club. Hands containing 14 high-card points are mandatory opening bids, and the fact that there is no biddable suit by ordinary standards is not a valid excuse for passing them. Since we cannot open with a notrump (16 to 18 points), and cannot pass, we manufacture a suit to bid — in this case, clubs. Three-card suits should seldom be bid. They are named only as a last resort.

5. One diamond. We cannot open with one notrump because that would show 16, 17 or 18 points, and this hand has 19. The natural bid of a diamond, the only biddable suit we have, is therefore made.

It is true that partner will not know that the diamond bid in this case is based on 19 points, but we intend to let him know about the excess strength by jumping the bidding at the next opportunity. If partner passed one diamond, there can be no game.

Chatter in the Corridor

By PEGGY FRY

Hello from Lincoln High!

A sure sign of spring for the students and faculty at LHS is just around the corner. The much anticipated All-Sports Banquet, sponsored by the Student Council, will take place this coming Saturday evening.

The theme for the banquet, "All the Links' Men," is being carried out in a chess game plan. Following the dinner, William Pfieff, dean of boys, will speak to the guests, and the boys having lettered in a sport this school year, will be recognized.

Perhaps highlighting the evening will be the double coronation of the All-Sports King, elected by the senior girls, and the queeen, chosen by the senior boys.

The candidates for king are Rod Blood, Bill Fry, Doug LaPage, John Moser, and Bob Sitzman. The candidates for queen are Lana Brown, Jean Eno, Becky Haas, Jackie Holmes, and Carol Jennings.

Following the dinner and awards, a dance, "A Fool's Mate," will climax the exciting evening.

Bride At Afternoon Wedding

MRS. JAMES A. CAIRNS

In the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends, the marriage of Miss Connie Mills, daughter of Mrs. Willard Glantz of Lincoln, and of Lambert Mills of Waverly, to James A. Cairns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cairns of Greenleaf, Kan., was solemnized Sunday afternoon, April 8. The 2:30 o'clock wedding took place at the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Greenleaf.

Miss Joyce Mills of Lincoln attended her sister as maid of honor and wore an afternoon frock of yellow chiffon over lace and taffeta.

Serving Mr. Cairns as best man was Michael Haberman of Des Moines, and Tom Scott of Lincoln seated the guests.

For her wedding, the bride chose an ensemble of white lace designed in the after-five length. The sleeveless basque was covered by a bolero jacket of the lace, fashioned with short sleeves and a Peter Pan collar, and horizontal tiers of the lace formed the wide skirt. Her illusion veil was held by a tiny crown of crystal beading, and she carried an arrangement of yellow roses and white daisies.

Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Cairns will reside in Lincoln.

Square Dances

Square dancing Friday evening at the IOOF Hall, 2735 No. 48th, will be the members of the Swing'em In Gingham Club. Also dancing this week end will be the members of the Promenaders Club, who will meet Saturday night at Newman Hall, 16th and Q.

MARITIME UNIONS GO BACK TO WORK

San Francisco (UPI)—Maritime unions went back to work on West Coast vessels Thursday under a Taft-Hartley order asked by President Kennedy but there was pessimism on both sides that the 80-day respite would be a cooling-off period as intended.

Shipowners, the 3 unions that struck 27 days ago for higher wages, export-import interests and non-striking longshoremen all accepted Wednesday's federal court order reluctantly.

None expected West Coast shipping to reach normal levels during the period and there was fear that, as in similar situations in 1948 and 1961, the strike would be resumed after the 80 days.

However the temporary restraining order issued by U.S. District Judge George B. Harris will provide immediate relief to Hawaii, where Gov. William F. Quinn had declared a state of emergency. Needed cargoes will be unloaded there and ships freed to carry pineapple and sugar to the mainland.

Matson Navigation Co. said its passenger liner Mariposa would sail for Los Angeles and the South Pacific Saturday. The Matsonia will depart with passengers for Honolulu the same day.

French Cop Tussle With OAS Force

Oran, Algeria (AP) — French troops with tanks and armored cars beat down a Secret Army insurrection in a 5-hour battle on the streets of Oran Thursday.

The fighting subsided Thursday night after French armor, spraying machine gun bullets, crashed through an automobile barricade and won control of Place des Victoires (victory square).

Unofficial reports put government losses at 5 soldiers or riot police killed and 18 injured. There was no estimate on Secret Army casualties.

This port city of 390,000, metropolis of Western Algeria, was virtually cut off from the outside by a strike of postal and telephone workers sympathetic to the Secret Army's violent efforts to nullify the March 19 cease-fire accord and block independence for Algeria.

The street battle broke out in late afternoon when riot police tried to search a house near the Place des Victoires. The square is in the business district.

Secret Army opened fire on the riot police from balconies, terraces and rooftops. The attack apparently was the signal for a generalized assault.

Within minutes the terrorists parked cars and trucks together to form barricades across streets and set up a hail of gunfire from behind them.

Heavy fighting raged as army vehicles, with guns blazing, moved in troops from the city's Mediterranean waterfront area.

Tanks and armored cars smashed through to the Place des Victoires and relieved the riot troops who had been cut off at the outset of the battle.

Dodgers Topple Cincinnati, 11-7

. . . 'K' RECORDS EQUALLED

Los Angeles (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, trailing 0-4, poured across 7 runs in the 5th inning Thursday night on 5 hits, 3 walks and 4 Cincinnati errors and went on for an 11-7 victory over the National League champions.

Crowd of 24,570, sitting in balmy weather, watched in amazement as 13 Dodgers paraded to the plate in a half inning that lasted approximately 35 minutes.

The hero and winning pitcher was rookie southpaw Pete Richert, who came on in relief of Stan Williams in the second and held the Reds hitless for 3⅓ innings.

He struck out 7, 6 of them were insuccession—tieing a mark set by Karl Spooner in 1954 for most consecutive strikeouts by a pitcher in his first game, and tieing the record for relief pitchers set in 1958 by Jack Meyer of Philadelphia.

Richert fanned 4 batters in the 3rd inning. (One gained first when catcher Johnny Roseboro was charged with a passed ball.) The 4 in the inning matched a many-times-equalled mark.

The victory gave the Dodgers the opening series, two games to one.

Cincinnati got off to its 4-run lead in the second on 3 walks, a balk, a single and Eddie Kasko's bases-clearing double.

Cincinnati went hitless from there on until the 7th, but came up with two runs in the 8th, one on Wally Post's second homer of the season. Pinch hitter Jerry Lynch homered in the 9th.

Los Angeles scored 3 runs in the 6th on 6 hits, including a triple by Ron Fairly and a double by Jim Gilliam.

Included in the 3-hour, 15-minute marathon were two balks, one by Williams, the other by Johnny Klippstein.

Roseboro put the finishing touches on the Dodgers' 7-run rally in the 5th, blooping a double to drive in Wally Moon, then racing to 3rd when pitcher Bob Miller threw to first base on an appeal play thinking Roseboro had failed to touch the bag.

As Roseboro raced to 3rd, Reds' first baseman Gordy Coleman fired to the bag but overthrew the base and the Dodger catcher loped home.

The 6 straight strikeouts tied the mark set by the Dodgers Karl Spooner in 1954 for most consecutive strikeouts by a pitcher in his first game and tied the record for relief pitchers set by Jack Meyer of Philadelphia in 1958. The 4 in one inning matched a many-times equalled mark.

NU Names Three New Yell Leaders

Three new cheerleaders and two alternates for the University of Nebraska yell squad have been chosen for the 1962-63 school year.

They are:

Penny Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Sullivan of Grand Island.

James Childe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Sangdahl of 4732 Chicago St., Omaha.

Gerald Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Owens of Verdon.

The alternates are:

Sally Jones, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Jones of Lincoln.

Don Theophilus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Theophilus of Norfolk.

They were selected after tryouts before a panel of judges including Athletic Director Tippy Dye.

Don't Burn Hen Cover Says Steen

State Game Commission director Mel Steen called on Nebraska landowners Thursday to preserve cover for hens to insure a plentiful supply of game birds in the fall.

The critical period for breeding is between now and July 1, Steen emphasized.

"The intensity of land use is such that the only nesting sites reasonably safe are those covers carried over from year to year or those which are largely undistrubed agriculture during the year."

These include road ditches, winter wheat fields and idle land, he said.

In this connection, Steen specifically asked landowners not to burn this cover or to mow around road ditches before July 1.

A study over the past 8 years shows that the fall bird game population depends almost exclusively on spring hatching. Game Commission investigations show that factors usually looked upon as detrimental — winter kill, hunting and perdition — are not controlling and usually not even significant.

"If we can save cover we don't have to destroy, then we can produce more birds," Steen said.

In areas studied, an average of only one hen in 5 hatched successfully over the past 8 years. The average successful nest hatches 7 or 8 eggs, but ⅓ of the new born chicks normally die within the first few weeks.

In the late 30's and early 40's, the game bird population in Nebraska was two to 3 times what it is today, Steen said. The reason, he explained, was that more land lay idle then providing good cover for nesting.

The game director said the state has been fortunate the past few years because an abundance of rain has produced good cover.

But he added a couple of dry years would deplete the population considerably.

Bob Erickson

Bearcat Cage Boss To Doane

Crete, Nebraska — Doane College has hired Robert K. Erickson as head basketball coach, according to Athletic Director, Elvin (Al) Papik. Erickson has been basketball coach at Kearney High School for three years.

He will begin his work at Doane on September 1, replacing Gene Else, who last September submitted a June 1 resignation. Else will teach at Beatrice next year.

Erickson graduated from Wakefield High School in Nebraska. He did his undergraduate work at Colorado State University and earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at Doane. From 1952 to 1956 he was in the Air Force.

The new coach's professional career began in Crete High School where he coached basketball and taught for two years. He moved to Kearney from Crete.

His overall basketball record is 52 wins and 35 losses. His Crete team was rated sixth in Class A one year and second the next.

At Kearney his team won the West Big 10 and went on to defeat state championship team, Fremont, for the Big 10 championship. During Erickson's second year at Kearney his record was 16 and three.

According to Papik, Erickson will head Doane's basketball program, will teach physical education, and will assist with football and spring sports.

9th Inning Homer Peps Angels, 1-0

. . . McBRIDE OVER HORLEN

Chicago (AP)—Outfielder Leon Wagner's 9th-inning homer, barely clearing the right center field bleacher wall, decided a brilliant mound duel between Los Angeles' Ken McBride and Chicago's rookie Joel Horlen for a 1-0 Angel triumph over the White Sox Thursday.

The game was played before only 1,087 in murky, drizzling weather with the Comiskey Park lights lighted from the 3rd inning.

McBride, 26-year-old righthander who had a 12-15 mark last season, hurled superbly after a bit of first inning trouble and held the White Sox to only 4 hits, striking out 6.

Horlen, 24, also a righthander, scattered 5 hits and fanned 5. But Wagner's clout ruined a fine performance.

Two of the Angels' 5 blows were doubles by veteran Eddie Yost which proved futile.

The Sox had an opening inning threat nipped on a fine throw to the plate by center fielder Lee Thomas. Luis Aparicio started the Sox first with a walk.

The little American League 1961 base stealing champion stole second and then tried to scurry home on Nellie Fox' hit to center. However, Thomas' peg on the fly to Angel catcher Bob Rodgers nailed Aparicio at the plate.

Still in the Sox first, McBride hit Floyd Robinson with a pitched ball and walked Al Smith, filling the bases. However, the smooth Angel rightie got out of the jam by striking out Mike Hershberger to end the inning.

After that, McBride got tougher and tougher, backed by a stout Angel defense. Robinson led off the Sox fourth with a single, but a double play erased him.

In the 7th, Hershberger opened the inning with the fourth hit off McBride and moved to second on Charlie Smith's sacrifice.

But McBride got Horlen to line out to left and Aparicio forced Hershberger to end the inning.

Horlen was equally as tough until Wagner's 9th-inning homer. Yost wasted his two baggers in the second and fifth and the only other Angel hits until the ninth-inning homer was Wagner's single in the sixth and Billy Moran's single in the seventh, both after two were out.

Thompson Quiets NWU Hitters, 5-1

Seward — Pitcher Don Thompson scattered 5 hits and struck out 9 in leading Concordia to a 5-1 baseball victory over Nebraska Wesleyan here Thursday afternoon.

Thompson pitched well throughout, allowing only one man to reach second base. That was Mel Hawbecker, who singled and came home with NWU's only run when Don Beckman doubled.

Concordia jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning and that was all that Thompson needed.

The Plainsmen, now 4-1 for the season, will get a chance to avenge the setback when Concordia comes to Lincoln for a return game, April 26th.

Twins Shoot Past A's In Style, 9-5

. . . BONIKOWSKI HURLS FINE

Kansas City (AP)—Joe Bonikowski, a 21-year-old righthander, pitched 5 1-3 innings of tight relief for Minnesota Thursday and the Twins backed him with timely hitting to take a 9-5 decision from the Kansas City Athletics.

The rookie hurler came on in the 4th inning after Dick Howser's inside the park home run with two on base had tied the score at 4-4.

With two more men on base following the home run, Bonikowski relieved starter Don Lee and walked Norm Siebern intentionally to fill the bases. Then he made Leo Posada bounce into an inning-ending double play.

He gave up only one run the rest of the way, battling his own control and a stiff wind blowing up to 35 miles an hour as well as the A's hitters. Two walks and a hit filled the bases in the 6th but Bonikowski again got Posada for a bases filled 3rd out, this time with a strikeout.

In the eighth he gave up singles to Howser and Jose Tartabull. Howser scored the A's 5th run as Jerry Lumpe hit into a forceout at second base.

The Twins scored first in the second inning on Earl Battey's second home run of the season. They added 3 more in the 3rd off starter Norm Bass on a single by Lee and doubles by Lenny Green and Vic Power. Bass departed in the 5th when Bob Allison's single scored Bonikowski, who had singled, and Green, who had walked.

That was enough to get Bonikowski home a winner but the Twins added two more in the 7th off Dan Pfister and another in the 9th off Dan Osinski, who walked 3 men and threw a wild pitch.

Only 854 paid to see the game played in 45 degree temperature. 90 ladies day guests also attended. It was the smallest crowd ever to see a major league game here.

Jose Pagan Sparks 8-4 Giants Win

San Francisco, (AP) — Shortstop Jose Pagan drove in 4 runs and scored one Thursday, pacing San Francisco to an 8-4 victory over Milwaukee and a sweep of their 3-game series.

Jack Sanford got credit for the victory but needed help from ace reliever Stu Miller after big Joe Adcock pounded a grand slam home run in the 8th with none out.

The undefeated Giants take on defending champion Cincinnati tonight.

The Giants collected 8 hits off 3 Milwaukee pitchers. The Braves had 6.

A crowd of 9,177 watched the Giants jump into a 4-0 first inning lead against Bob Buhl.

Harvey Kuenn led off with a single to left, followed by a pair of walks to Chuck Hiller and Willie Mays.

Orlando Cepeda flied to Hank Aaron in center, Kuenn scoring after the catch. Ed Bailey popped out, but the 5-9 pagan, who might weigh 170 pounds dripping wet, pounded a 3-run triple to right center.

CELTS HAVE EDGE IN FINAL 3 NBA GAMES

Boston (AP) — The revived Boston Celtics have regained a hairline edge over Los Angeles today in the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

Smooth execution of their must formula of relentless running, hot shooting (50 per cent) and board crashing produced a 115-103 victory at Los Angeles Wednesday night and evened the best-of-7 series 2-2.

"It's down to a best-of-3 series, now," said Boston coach Red Auerbach "and we'll be playing two at home, which is in our favor."

The next game is scheduled here Saturday night and the 6th back in Los Angeles Monday. If the 7th game is needed it will be here next Wednesday.

"I think we can win one game in Boston and I know we'll win back home Monday," said Laker coach Fred Schaus.

Auerbach repeated his statement he was "tremendously proud of the way the team bounced back after that heartbreaking loss Tuesday night."

Laker Jerry West stole the ball and scored a layup at the buzzer for a 117-115 verdict that night.

Only twice before in its championship reign had Boston been forced to come from behind in a title series. Both occasions came in 1957 when the Celtics won only the second of the first 3 encounters with St. Louis.

"We've got to keep running to win," reminded Boston captain Bob Cousy. "We won last night on team effort. We moved the ball and ourselves as we should and Bill Russell moved into the basket and the boards.

"When Russell is moving like that he not only scores more but opens up the middle for us to maneuver."

In addition to the knowledge they must play their own style and not be led into playing the opponent's game, the Celtics agree there is no way to stop a great player like Elgin Baylor of the Lakers. The secret is to minimize his help from men like West, Rudy Larusso and Jim Krebs.

"We knew we had to stop West," said Sam Jones." "He had murdered us in the previous two games. I didn't play him any differently but we forced him to take a lot of bad shots for a change."

From Auerbach down to the reserves, the Boston club is wondering about foul calls. The Celtics have a 194-159 field goal edge for the series. But the Lakers have had 173 shots from the free throw line and made 139 compared to Boston's 86-of-116.

Boston is seeking its 4th straight NBA playoff crown and 5th in 6 years. The Lakers had 5 in 6 years while at Minneapolis ending with the 1953-54 campaign.

Stone Hurls 45s To Clean Sweep

Houston (AP)—Dean Stone, a 32-year-old former American leaguer, gave up only 3 hits Thursday as his Houston Colt 45s took their second straight shutout victory from the Chicago Cubs 2-0.

Stone was the 3rd straight left-hander manager Harry Craft used against the Cubs as Houston swept the 3-game series marking its National League debut.

Stone, a Washington pitcher from 1953 through 1957, struck out 9 batters and permitted only one man to reach second base. Ken Hubbs doubled in the first inning for Chicago but got no further.

The game was a battle of left-handers the first 7 innings with Stone holding a narrow edge over Chicago's Jack Curtis, who gave up only 3 hits before going out for a pinchhitter in the 8th.

An error and two wild pitches figured in Houston's scores but both runs were earned.

The Colts, who beat the Cubs 2-0 Wednesday night after an 11-2 opening day romp, took a 1-0 lead in the 4th on two hits and an error. Joey Amalfitano opened with a walk and moved to second when Dick Gernert beat out a sacrifice bunt for a single.

Roman Mejias forced Amalfitano at 3rd but Gernert moved to 3rd when Ron Santo's throw to first as a double play effort went into the dirt.

Hal Smith drove in Gernert with a single to short left but Jim Pendleton ended the Colt threat by hitting into a double play.

The Colts scored their other run in the 8th with Dave Gerard, a rookie righthander, pitching for the Cubs. With two out, Bob Aspromonte singled and Amalfitano walked. Both moved up on a wild pitch that enabled Aspromonte to score.

The Cubs' other hits, besides Hubbs double, were a single by Ron Santo in the second inning and a single by Curtis leading off the 3rd. Stone blanked the Chicagoans without a hit the rest of the way.

A heavy spring snowstorm, which dumped more than 6 inches of the white stuff on the Twin Cities area, made the bleachers and the field a bleak place at Metropolitan Stadium, Thursday. The outlook for the Twins scheduled home opener isn't pleasant.

Finsterwald Takes Lead In Greensboro Tourney

. . . PALMER TIED FOR 29TH PLACE

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, low man on the totem pole in the Masters golf tournament playoff 3 days ago, rebounded with a 6 under par 65 first round Tuesday to take a two-stroke lead in the $35,000 greater Greensboro Open tournament.

The 32-year-old Tequesta, Fla., professional, who hasn't won a tournament since scoring at New Orleans over two years ago, put together nines of 32-33 against par of 36-35 for the 7,000 muddy yards of the rainsoaked Sedgefield Country Club.

His score was one over the tournament record set 21 years ago by Byron Nelson and put him two shots ahead of former U.S. open champion Julius Boros of Southern Pine, N.C., who carded 33-34—67.

Arnold Palmer, conqueror of Finsterwald and Gary Player in Monday's Master's playoff, was in an 8-way tie for 29th place with a par 71.

In all, 28 players in the field of 152 bettered par and 8 equalled regulation figures on a day marked by heavy early morning rain in mid-40 degree temperature. The rain quit early in the afternoon, shortly after Palmer began play.

Back of Finsterwald and Boros were 6 players tied for 3rd place at 68, 3 shots off the pace. Among them was defending champion Mike Souchak of Durham, N.C., who picked up 3 birdies and an eagle on the last 5 holes. He chipped in from 50 feet for his eagle and rolled in two 15-foot putts and a 14-footer for the birds.

Seven more pros were one stroke back at 69 and 13 shot 70, among them Sam Snead who is after his 8th Greensboro victory since 1938 when he won the first tournament here.

Finsterwald started his bogey-free round by holing from 170 yards out for an eagle on the 468-yard first hole. "What a way to start the day," he noted later.

He was one of the early starters and played through the worst of the foul weather, but sailed along smoothly. He birdied the 6th hole from 6 feet and No. 7 from 2½. He missed the 8th green, but a 12-footer earned his par there. On the 10th a 15-footer brought a birdie 3 and on No. 11 a 7-foot putt saved the par. He missed the 13th green, but chipped up 5 feet from the pin and nailed his par. A 15-footer on the short 16th brought the 1958 PGA champion his final birdie.

He missed only two greens and needed only 28 putts.

Boros, missing 4 greens, escaped with only two bogies and collected 6 birds, with 25 and 15-footers his longest putts.

Easter Bunny Look Out; Boppers Win Court Bout

Raleigh, N.C. (AP) — A humane society official Thursday lost an effort to stop "bunny bopping," rabbit hunts in which the animals are killed with sticks and stones instead of guns.

The state supreme court upheld the action of superior court judge Walter E. Crissman who had refused to issue an order restraining the American Legion Post at Harmony, N.C., from holding any more such hunts.

The action was brought by James Yandell of Charlotte.

The supreme court said Yandell offered no evidence to show that a criminal prosecution under laws forbidding cruelty to animals "is not an adequate remedy if, in fact, the defendants are guilty of a violation of that statute.

"It is important to note that the plaintiff offered evidence tending to support his allegations that these defendants plan to sponsor future rabbit hunts of the character of which he complains," the court said.

Previous hunts were staged as sport, and the rabbits were served at a dinner, with proceeds to charitable activities of the legion post.

"Certainly, the future health, safety and welfare of the public cannot be endangered by what occurred on previous hunts," the court said.

BROKEN BOW BAGS ORD RELAYS TITLE

Ord — Broken Bow and Ravenna won team titles at the Ord Invitational track meet Wednesday night.

Broken Bow, minus ace sprinter Kent McCloughan, successfully defended the Class A title with a good showing of depth. The Custer County crew managed only 3 individual firsts but scored well in almost every event and took two relay crowns.

Ravenna took the Class B section with a healthy 17 point bulge over Mullen.

The top surprise of the meet came in Class B where Henderson's ace sprinter Elmer Wall was beaten in both of the dashes. Tall Jim Kleffner of Spalding Academy won the 220 with a 23.8 clocking and Rich Baker of Ravenna copped the century in 10.5.

The meet was run despite intermitent showers and 45 degree temperatures.

The cricket ground was used by Canadian army units for grenade training during World War II.

Unsuspecting cricket players and spectators have been tramping around on the buried grenades for almost two decades.

SAYERS GAINS IN KU DRILLS

Lawrence, Kan. (UPI) — The Kansas University football squad received its first taste of full-scale contact Wednesday as coach Jack Mitchell took the team out for line scrimmages.

Bolting for repreated gains were sophomore halfback Tony Leiker, sophomore fullback Armand Baughman and freshman halfbacks Gale Sayers and Dave Crandall.

Mitchell also singled out John Garber, sophomore guard from Sabetha, for his up-front blocking.

So far, no varsity team has taken shape. Mitchell will start lining them up Saturday for the spring's first intrasquad scrimmage.

Brian Schweda, promising Lawrence freshman, was the team's first casualty. He sprained a wrist, but is expected back Friday.

Snow Puts Halt To Twins Fray

Minneapolis (AP) — A regionally-spawned spring storm slashed across Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa Thursday, dumping up to a foot of new snow on some communities and knocking out the home opener of the Minnesota Twins baseball team.

The Twins front office held off postponing today's game with the Los Angeles Angels until 6 inches of snow blanketed Metropolitan Stadium.

"It looks like we should be happy if we can play by Sunday," said Billy Robertson, stadium director.

The storm boiled out of eastern South Dakota and southwestern Minnesota overnight — smothering Pipestone, Minn., with a foot of snow by forenoon.

Mets Parade In New York City

. . . CALLED 'METS DAY'

New York (AP)—New Yorkers gave the ticker-tape treatment to some losers Thursday, hailing Casey Stengel and his "amazing" Mets in a parade through lower Manhattan's skyscrapered canyons.

Thousands cheered the big city's new National League team as the motorcade inched along the traditional trail of celebration followed earlier by such heroes as Charles Lindberg and Col. John Glenn.

The Mets, who got their first taste of official action Wednesday night in St. Louis and were drubbed by the Cardinals 11-4, were accorded full honors by New York—which hasn't had an NL team since the Dodgers and Giants left town four years ago for the golden west.

First was the short but tumultuous ride from the southern tip of the island to city hall. Throngs lined the route, and more than once police lines were broken as spectators crashed through for a closer look at the ball players.

While they were being showered with cheers, tape, confetti and shredded telephone books, the Mets tossed back souvenirs in the form of plastic baseballs.

The players wore their battle gear — pin-striped uniforms, with blue and orange caps.

Manager Stengel was given the loudest cheers and the ovation must have been a sweet sound for the grizzled old campaigner.

After a triumphant tenure with the New York Yankees, he was cashiered because of advanced age after the 1960 season and is now returning to the game as leader of one of the league's two new teams.

The parade ended at city hall, where 2,000 more fans and a clutch of politicians were assembled.

Mayor Robert Wagner officially proclaimed it "Mets Day" and eventually it was Stengel's turn. After a few remarks, Casey said:

"Now I'll introduce you to the amazing Mets."

He called on each one, prefacing the name of each with a "mister." When he came to the infielders, Casey spieled:

"Now here's my fast, flashy fielding infield that makes the double play so fast that you need binoculars to follow it."

NOT A SOUL DOWN ON OLD 'T' CORNER

... TIME BREAKS UP GANG

New York (UPI) — Time is breaking up that old gang of veteran quarterbacks who used to rule the roost in the National Football League.

With the baseball season barely underway, pro footballers are gearing for their own 1962 campaigns with spring house-cleaning that produced a few shockers for the old quarterback brigade in the way of swaps and retirement.

The turnover has been so great that Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts, himself a comparative newcomer, is the only signal-caller who'll be a certain starter on the same club he ran two years ago.

Some of the old boys still are around, like Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants and Bobby Layne of the Pittsburgh Steelers, but the last two years have brought big changes for them, too.

Tittle was with San Francisco two years ago. Layne was with the Steelers in 1960 but he's no longer a sure-pop starter.

The Steelers recently obtained Ed Brown from the Chicago Bears and coach Buddy Parker regards him as his No. 1 boy — until Layne proves he can win the job back.

Top trade shocker, of course, was the Cleveland-Detroit deal in which quarterbacks were included in the exchange. Milt Plum of the Browns went to Detroit and Detroit's Jim Ninowski switched to the Browns.

Throughout the league there has been unrest in the vital passing slot, breaking up the old pattern by which nearly everything on a ball club changed except the quarterback.

Guys like Sammy Baugh, Sid Luckman, Bob Waterfield, Charley Conerly and Otto Graham went on for years closely identified with the same club. Later, Layne settled down with the Steelers and Norm Van Brocklin with the Philadelphia Eagles where they became part of the old guard. Tittle was in it, too, in his heyday with the Forty-Niners.

Unitas cracked into the elite set shortly after joining the Colts in 1956 and now he's the only one left at the same old stand.

In 1960, the Bears and Brown and Zeke Bratkowski at quarterback but will go with Billy Wade in 1962. Brown went to the Steelers, Zeke to Los Angeles a year ago in a deal for Wade.

At Dallas, young Don Meredith is shoving out Eddie Lebaron, the 1960 starter. At Green Bay, it's Bart Starr who took over from '60 starter Lamar McHan, now a sub at Baltimore.

Minnesota has Francis Tarkenton in place of George Shaw, another veteran who lost his job last season. Conerly retired after 14 seasons with the Giants, leaving sole possession to Tittle.

Van Brocklin, long-time Eagles ace, retired to coach and was replaced by Sonny Jurgensen last year.

John Brodie is No. 1 at San Francisco, a spot Tittle held in '60, and Norm Snead is Washington's starter in place of 1960 regular Ralph Guglielmi, now a sub at St. Louis where Sam Etcheverry is No. 1 after a long term in Canada.

So you'll have to look sharp to figure who's quarterbacking whom come next fall.

Bad Skies Threaten Top Game

Detroit (AP) — A threat of snow flurries and cloudy skies was forecast for Friday's first 1962 showdown between the World Champion New York Yankees and their closest pursuer last year, the Detroit Tigers.

A crowd reaching 50,000 is expected for the Tigers' home opener if the weatherman's prediction turns out to be a false alarm. All reserve and box seat tickets have been sold.

Manager Bob Scheffing has named his top pitcher, Frank Lary, to pitch against his Yankee cousins.

Gubner Eyes Shot Record In Quantico Relays Today

Quantico, Va. (AP) — The Quantico Relays—first major spring meet in the East—begins a 2-day run Friday with Cary Gubner starting his campaign for the world shot put record.

The entry list of 890 at this sprawling Marine Corps base is headlined by Gubner, sprinter Frank Budd, Olympic discus champion Al Oerter and Marine Lieut. Dave Tork, a 15-foot-8¼ pole vaulter.

Gubner, the giant New York University sophomore, smashed every shot put record he encountered last winter and finished with a 64 foot, 11¾ inch personal record. Now he starts after Bill Nieder's 2-year-old official world standard of 65-10.

Budd, whose 9.2 world record for the 100 was tied by Robert Hayes of Florida A&M, won't run the sprint. Nor will his Villanova teammate, Paul Drayton. Both, instead, will concentrate on the relays.

The Wildcats are the defending champions in the 880. Budd, Drayton and Bob Raemore are back from that quartet and will be the favorites. Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott also has his eye on the mile relay.

Oerter, whose 194-2 set an Olympic record in Rome in 1960, will battle with defending champion Eino Keerd of the New York A.C. and Ed Kohler of Fordham.

Without John Uelses, who was discharged from the Marines 3 weeks ago, the pole vault will be a contest between Tork and Rolando Cruz of Villanova. Cruz is another potential 16-footer.

George Young is the big man in the steeplechase Paul Winder of Baltimore could win the 100 in the absence of Budd.

Cary Weisiger of Quantico is the favorite in the mile and Pete Close of Camp LeJeune is the half-mile choice.

Morgan State will be back to defend its mile and sprint medley titles. Fordham, with the same team that set a 7:30 Quantico record last year, will try to make it two in a row in the 2-mile.

Penn State is the distance medley favorite and the Baltimore Olympic Club the 4-mile choice.

Other defenders are Russ Rogers of Maryland State in the 120-yard hurdles and Lawson Smart of Morgan State in the 440 hurdles.

Gottlieb May Sell

Philadelphia (AP) — "I can neither affirm nor deny," said owner Eddie Gottlieb of the Philadelphia Warriors Thursday after it was learned from a reliable source he verbally has agreed to sell the National Basketball Association club to a west coast syndicate.

Unless Gottlieb has a change of heart, the Warriors apparently are going to San Francisco. Gottlieb has been offered $350,000 for the Philadelphia franchise by Bernard Solomon, spokesman for the west coast syndicate.

"What else can I say until I'm in a position to say something more," added Gottlieb. He said he expects to make an announcement within the next two weeks.

The source, who did not want to be identified by name, also reported that even if the Warriors are sold and moved to the west coast, Gottlieb will still have an NBA franchise, possibly through the switching of Syracuse to Philadelphia, either this year or next.

'College Grads Aren't Always Top Soldiers'

. . . SAYS DRAFT DIRECTOR

By GENE BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

College graduates often don't make the best soldiers, the national director of Selective Service said Thursday.

"Just give me men who have the right concepts about their obligations," asked Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey who is in Lincoln as guest of the Reserve Officers Assn.

He said such men are often found in the non-college ranks.

"Some college men have learned only what they want to know," he claimed.

High school graduates, according to the general, are prime targets of the armed forces because they are more likely to stick with the service than a college "whiz who's going to whiz out."

The chances of college graduates re-enlisting are "quite slim," he noted.

Gen. Hershey, in his 21st year as director of the Selective Service System, has seen some 14 million men drafted.

But, the actual task of "counting, sorting and sending" is performed by the local boards, he said.

The military currently is rejecting from 45 to 50% of candidates for induction, Gen. Hershey reported.

He said about 40% of these are rejected for physical causes, about 40% for mental causes and the remaining 20% for a combination of reasons.

'Negative Testing'

"I'm not sure that I agree with the present way of testing," he said, calling it a negative approach.

"We can measure what's wrong with him, but not what's right with him," he complained.

He added that it's too bad when "we swap people with flat feet for people with flat heads."

The general said that more Selective Service time is spent in keeping tabs of standby and deferred men than meeting draft calls (6,000 nationally for the army in May).

The system, he said, must keep track of some 60,000 to 70,000 individuals in industry, 275,000 to 300 college and university students and 1.6 million reservists.

Thursday night Hershey reminded that "we live in a dangerous world."

For this reason "we need a Selective Service system," he said at a special banquet sponsored by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

Gen. Hershey said the system of drafting is vital to U.S. might and survival.

"Somebody has got to do the fighting in case something happens," he explained. "That's why we're in operation."

The general said Americans must be realistic in that "not everybody in the world likes. Some actually hate us."

More than 200 persons attended the banquet which also featured Lt. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, Nebraska director of Selective Service.

Stock Market Slumps To New '62 Low

New York (AP) —The stock market Thursday slumped to a new low for 1962 as Wall Street feared counterblows from Washington because of the steel price increase.

Steels led the retreat — the sharpest in 4 months — and the rest of the list followed along.

Losses of 1 or 2 points were common among blue chips and some of the higher-priced issues were off much worse. Du Pont's loss of 6½ was a mighty downward pull on the averages.

The Dow Jones industrial average finally broke below the 1962 low which has proved a "support" to recent declines. The Dow industrials took a big loss of 9.23 at 685.67, piercing the Jan. 29 closing level of 689.92, the previous low.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 3.1 to a new '62 low of 251.10 with industrial down 5.40 to a new low for the year, rails down .80 and utilities down 1.20.

An estimated $4.9 million was shorn from quoted values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the AP average.

Of 1,286 issues traded, 87 fell and 209 rose. New highs for the years totaled 12 and new lows 180.

Volume was 3.32 million shares compared with 3.24 million Wednesday.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks declined, 3 advanced and one was unchanged.

Prices fell sharply on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds advanced. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Frontier Air Route Appeal Delay Likely

The adjournment of the state supreme court during the months of June, July, August and most of September will delay a decision in the controversial Frontier Airlines case until at least October.

The appeal is expected to reach the high court in late May after the State Railway Commission rules on Frontier's motion for a rehearing, filed following the commission's order that Frontier resume service on Segment 13 of its northern Nebraska route within 60 days.

Sources in Lincoln say it is almost a certainty that the motion will be rejected by the commission. Frontier has said that it will appeal the case to the high court.

The commission action is expected in late May, but the court will not be able to schedule oral arguments in the case until it reconvenes the third Monday in September.

Another delay of a few weeks will then occur prior to the issuance of an opinion by the high court.

Single Wholesale Power Agency Recommended

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A single wholesale public power agency to serve the entire state outside of the Omaha Public Power District corporate area was recommended Thursday to a legislative committee.

The proposal was voiced by Ralph Foreman of Columbus in an executive session of the Legislative Council's power study committee.

Foreman — who later made the recommendation public — is manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc. He represents rural districts on the Nebraska Public Power Committee.

Earlier Plan Killed

The single wholesale district plan is similar to LB606 introduced in the 1961 Legislature by Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City. It was killed in committee and later rejected on the floor.

Stryker, a member of the study committee, told newsmen after Thursday's meeting that "my position has not changed" on the matter.

Foreman proposed merger of Consumers Public Power District, the Nebraska Public Power System and the cooperative with which he is associated.

The NPPS partners—Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District — could either merge into the new agency or return to generation within their corporate areas.

Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District, a former NPPS partner, showed the way in this regard when it returned to buss bar operation in 1949.

The new wholesale district would operate a retail division until at least 1972 under the Foreman proposal in order to serve cities now served by CPPD.

One representative statewide board of directors would govern the agency.

The Nebraska Rural Electric Assn. went on record Feb. 8 in support of a single wholesale district.

The legislative committee — headed by Sen. Don Thompson of McCook — will ask specific recommendations on an over-all solution to power problems from agency spokesmen May 3.

Among persons who will be invited to the meeting are the president, manager and a director from Loup, Platte and CPPD.

Others are to include C. F. Moulton, NPPC chairman and OPPD general manager; Paul Ogier, NREA president; Frank Phelps, municipal utilities spokesman; Robert Beck, Seattle consulting engineer, and Frank Haumont, general manager of Custer Public Power District.

The committee was also advised that Loup expects to complete "within 3 or 4 days" its promised proposal for the out-of-court settlement of pending litigation.

CPPD, Platte and the rurals have already agreed to a solution — but Loup has not accepted their proposal.
